Foreword

Graduation! Is it the end or the beginning? What has it meant to spend four years at Thomas Jefferson? Every day students have entered the doors beside which are carved these words from Thomas Jefferson. "To enable every man to judge for himself what will secure or endanger his freedom." Yes, high school has enabled us to become more mature in our thinking, to evaluate ideas carefully before accepting them as true. We have been confronted with the great ideas of scientists, historians, mathematicians, and authors who have passed their knowledge on to us. We have learned to work with others in class and in extracurricular activities. We have participated in the government of the school through the Student Participation Association. The outside world has come to us with our exchange students. All of these experiences have been crowded into four years. This cannot be the end; indeed, it can be only the beginning. Thomas Jefferson, what have you meant to us? Our reply is in the words of our Alma Mater, "Thou hast taught us how to live."

Dedicated To . . .

In the middle of a busy day, Mr. Hancock takes time to discuss with Lynore Katz her college plans.

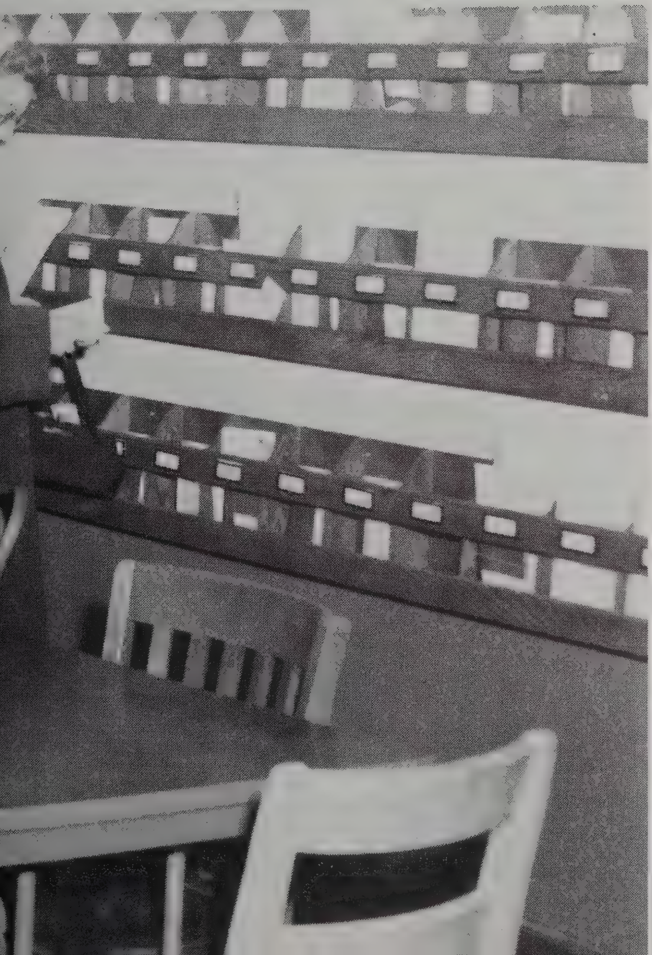
To you, Mr. Coalter C. Hancock—second principal of Thomas Jefferson High School—we dedicate this 1959 Monticello. For the past sixteen years you have dedicated your life to your school, inspiring and guiding the students through their years at Thomas Jefferson. You have made our happy times memorable and our problems seem trivial. You became principal in 1942 when the world was in the midst of a war. You encouraged our teachers to instill in us those basic ideals for which our nation was waging that war. You guided us through the succeeding years when our world witnessed V-J Day, V-E Day, the development of superior weapons of destruction, and the advancement in medical science. Today we are still trying to strengthen our scientific research and agricultural development so that we may prevent World War III. It is obvious to anyone that much has taken place in the past sixteen years in our world; and you, during those years devoted a great part of your life to the welfare of the younger generation, preparing us to face this world of both war and peace. Thomas Jefferson has kept us mentally alert and challenged us to face whatever lies ahead after graduation. In the last two years you have tried to broaden our knowledge by adding courses on the college level to our curriculum. As a result of these courses many students are able to receive advanced placement in college. Mr. Hancock, for these things and many others we are grateful to you. We thank you for making us a small part of your life, and for this reason we dedicate to you our 1959 Monticello.

Mr. Hancock interrupts his reading to greet a parent. His main interest was in the students' education.

Coalter C. Hancock

. . . Through Guidance

Faculty



Life is a continuous cycle which stops for no one. Everyone wants to live life to its fullest, but many are not able to do so because they have not had the proper guidance. Whether it be a baby or an adult, everyone needs a helping hand at one time or another. A high school student may think he knows everything until he takes one step in the wrong direction and finds himself looking hopefully toward his parents for help. Little does he realize that he is always receiving help from his school as well as his parents. High school teachers must be able to give a student both book sense and, to an extent, some common sense. At Thomas Jefferson the teachers take an interest in each student's problems. In this way a student feels that he always has a guiding hand to which to turn. High school gives one more than preparation for college or jobs, it gives him a better understanding of life, problems he will face, and most important, a knowledge of himself. Those who respect the school rules make good citizens, and those who learn the meaning of friendship by having friends make true friends. Today we are living in a world of turmoil. If we would heed the advice of others maybe we might be able to advance in a way that would bring credit to ourselves, our families and our school.

WILLIAM W. BROCK, JR., PRINCIPAL

Administration

Mr. William W. Brock, as new principal of Thomas Jefferson High School, had great responsibilities in serving our school this past year. Mr. Brock did more than his duties as principal; he did an exceedingly good job in not only carrying out the activities of the school but in becoming acquainted with the students individually. He has had many years of experience with students of all ages. Before coming to Thomas Jefferson, Mr. Brock had spent twenty-two years with the public schools. Although history was the major of our new principal in college, he became interested in the teaching profession shortly after graduating from V.P.I. in 1934. Mr. Brock still has a strong desire to continue his education, for at the present time he is a philosophy student at the University of Virginia. Although he has completed his classwork, he will not receive his Ph.D. degree until he has completed his dissertation, on which he is now working. Besides the time which is devoted to school activities, Mr. Brock finds time to participate in many other activities. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club, the Torch Club, and he is a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Army Reserve. A great deal of his time is spent with his two children, Angier, eleven, and Bill, nine. Mr. Brock enjoys working with students on the high school level, and he feels that it is an honor to be our new principal.

Mr. Brock explains the class schedule to Alain Werbrouck, French foreign exchange student.

The guidance program at Thomas Jefferson was created for the purpose of helping the students make the many decisions which develop in the four years of high school. Our counselors, Mrs. Bennett, Miss Brame, Miss Jordan, and Miss Norfleet, devote endless hours to arranging schedules so that each student might be able to take the courses which will fit him for whatever he will do after high school. Each year the guidance department gives various tests. In the tenth grade both the California Mental Maturity Test and the American Council of Education Test are given. One of these measures the student's mental ability, while the other tests him on his knowledge of mathematics, vocabulary, and spatial relations. The eleventh grade students are required to take the Junior Arithmetic Test to determine their proficiency in arithmetic. In the twelfth grade a different test from the American Council of Education is given. This test determines the ability of the student to do college work. Our counselors help the students prepare for graduation by having the invitations ordered and the caps and gowns fitted. The guidance department is a very important part of the life of the student in this high school.

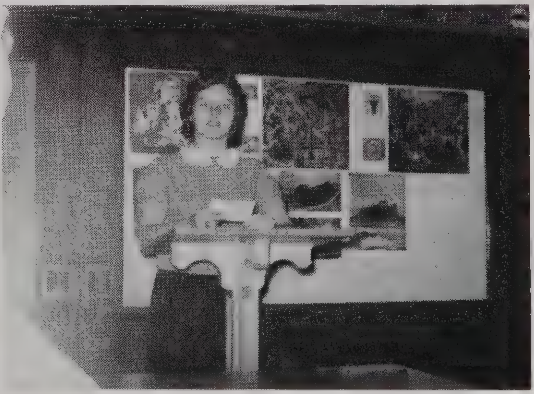
English and Communication

Ninety teaching hours each day are devoted to the study of English, our native language. Skill in the use of language is essential, whether one be a home economics major or a physics major. The learning of other subjects depends on the student's understanding of his language. Thomas Jefferson requires four years of English for students who wish to receive a diploma. Classes in grammar and composition are required of all students each year. Each student is taught the organization of the English language, for it is necessary to understand the organization in order to have full use of the language as a tool. Learning the form of English and the way to use it is essential for success in all fields. Students are taught how to use their knowledge of reading and writing in many ways. A study of the works of writers, such as Shakespeare, is a means of gaining an appreciation of good literature. Although many students may never enter the journalistic field, the study of literature helps everyone learn how to express himself clearly and to appreciate the beauties of his language. Speaking is as important as writing because it is the basis of all social relations. One who can speak well often makes good in business and makes many friends as well. Thomas Jefferson's speech class was created for this purpose; it helps students develop conversational and speaking abilities. This past year Thomas Jefferson set up an English class which was taught on an advanced level. The students, who were recommended for this class by a previous English teacher, found that, in addition to the regular twelfth grade course, they had experience in writing compositions on a college level. The English department of Thomas Jefferson is prepared and quite able to give the students a good, sound knowledge of the language we speak.

Beverly Davis, Stephen Galleher, and Pat Ryan practice their speech by giving radio announcements.

Oral book reviews add an interest to English class. Patsy Clark, in turn, reports on the book she has read.



English literature is taught in the second half of the senior year. In addition to the short stories and poems, the Shakespearean play, "Hamlet," is studied. Sandra Meyers and Susan Rosenbloom listen to records as Miss Lowance explains.

Mathematics

Having moved from the crude stages, science today is a story of achievement. Gradually we have observed the growth of programs for safety from diseases; for improvement of human behavior; and the development of industry through science. Considering the great service which scientists and engineers render to mankind, they should be among the most honored of men. Today the Space Age makes even greater demands upon scientists and engineers. This Space Age will go down in history as a most important era. The future of our scientific achievements lies in the hands of the up and coming young men and women of the world. Thomas Jefferson offers many valuable courses to those students who wish to enter either the scientific or the engineering fields. These subjects include algebra, geometry, trigonometry, solid geometry, chemistry, and physics. Although these are required subjects for would-be scientists and engineers, students are required to take the basic English, foreign language, and history courses. Thomas Jefferson's Science Club enables students to understand the vast changes which are taking place in the world today; therefore, graduates of Thomas Jefferson are well informed and are able to enter either the scientific or the engineering fields. Many students from Thomas Jefferson enter the talent search contests from which they gain special recognition, often in terms of a scholarship which enables them to go on with research.

Dr. Irby not only teaches the advanced chemistry class at Thomas Jefferson three days a week, but he also has a full time job as a research chemist at American Tobacco Co.

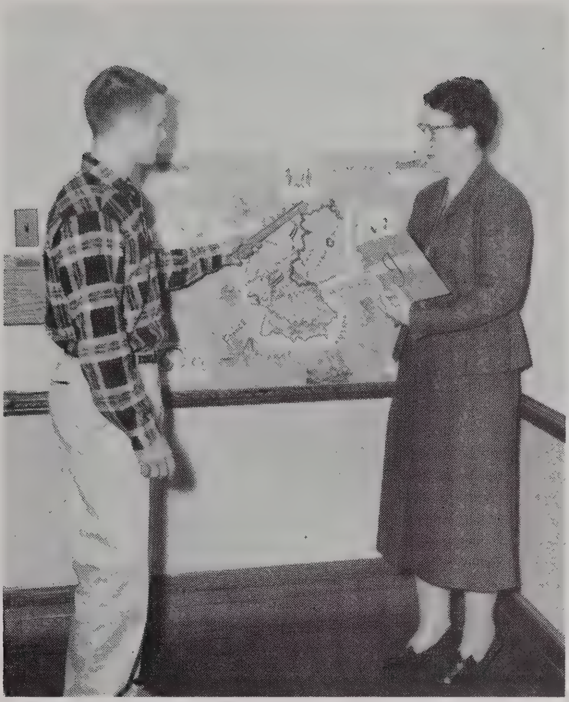
Social Studies

Miss Brandenburg explains the American system of government to Jeannette Harrington.

Social studies is the name given to the fields of history, economics, and government. At Thomas Jefferson, as in many other high schools, most of the time devoted to the social studies is spent on history. Aside from the required United States history, civics, and American government, the students of Thomas Jefferson may take world history or economics. A class on the college level has been effered the last two years in the field of European history. Students who wish to obtain advanced placement in college have had an opportunity to take this class. Every student who has taken this advanced course feels that he has gained in that he is well prepared for college. Social studies develop within each student a greater appreciation of the ideals and principles on which this nation was built. It gives him a chance to examine thoroughly the social order in which he lives so that he can take an intelligent place in civic and national affairs.



Mrs. Hutton helps Gene Overton learn the German language by having him pronounce the names of German cities.

Thomas Jefferson is aware of the fact that one gains an intelligent understanding of his foreign neighbors by being able to speak their languages. Latin, French, and Spanish, the most popular foreign languages with the students, are taught from the intermediate level to the advanced level. In this way a student may take a language in his freshman year, and by continuing it through his senior year he may have the advantage of receiving advanced placement in college. German and Russian were among the new additions to the curriculum this past year. The students who took either of these languages feel that it was a challenge to take a course which so few schools offer. Many students major in a foreign language in college and find foreign service very interesting work. For these students and those who are undecided about their future, Thomas Jefferson feels quite proud that she can offer the best education possible in the field of foreign language.

Business

In the past many large fortunes have been made in business by persons with little education and with little money to start on, but they have had enthusiasm and new ideas. Today it is much more difficult to start out in life as a peddler and build up a great business, although it still can be done. The day is past when little or no schooling is necessary to succeed in the business world. Those entering business with less than a high school education are certain to find themselves handicapped. Thomas Jefferson offers a business course which trains students for the business world. Courses in typing, shorthand, filing, business machines and clerical practice, economics, and bookkeeping supply valuable assistance to those students who are interested in business. Electives

Thomas Jefferson informs students about the business world and stimulates interest in bookeeping. The members visit local firms, and, in turn, invite representatives from these firms to speak at their meetings. Thomas Jefferson also offers an elective course to those students who do not wish to go to college. The elective diploma requirements are much the same as those for a college preparatory diploma. The major difference between the two is that an elective diploma requires only one unit in math, one unit in general science, and no units in foreign language. Many students who receive an elective diploma enter the commercial field immediately after graduation, but there are some students who go to college.

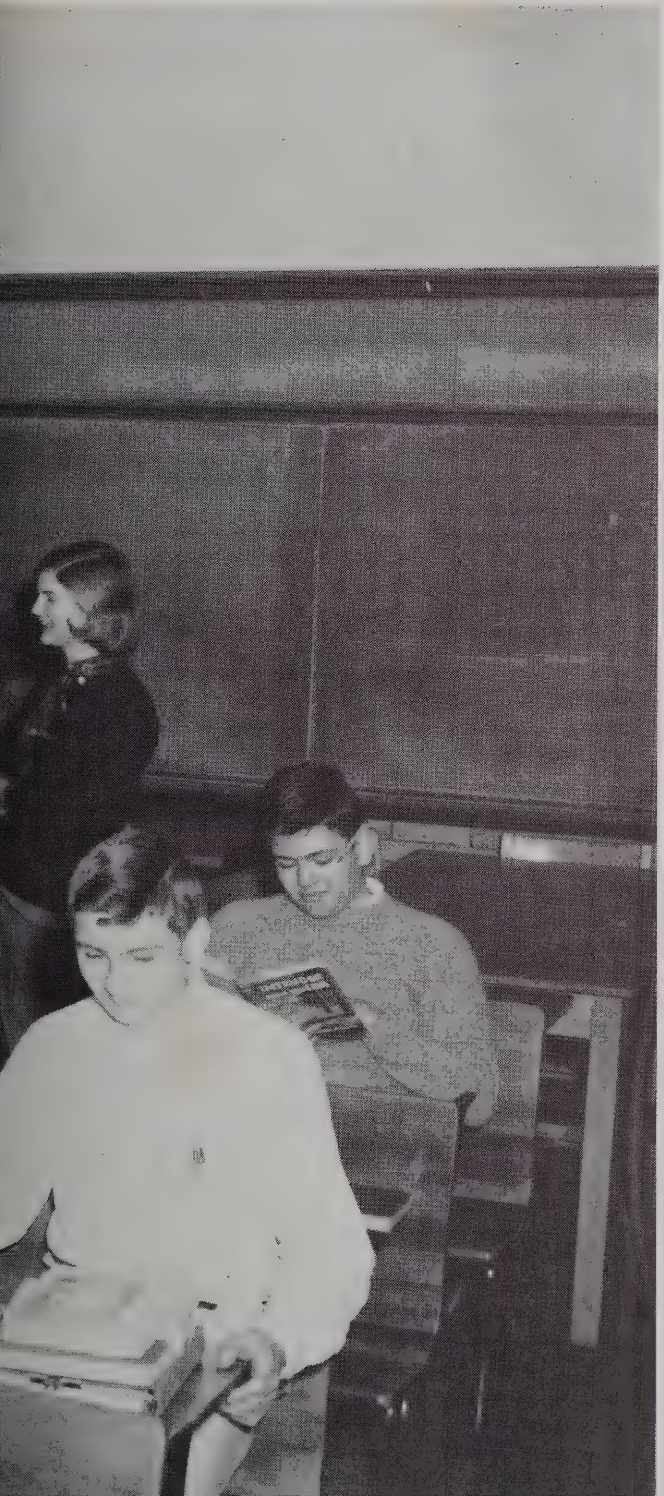
. . . Through Knowledge

Classes



On the front entrance to Thomas Jefferson one reads the quotation, "To enable every man to judge for himself what will secure or endanger his freedom." This high goal which was set by the school for its students requires that the curriculum provide knowledge. In the modern world one must be alert and ready to evaluate what he sees or hears in terms of its merit to his development as a well-rounded person. Since so many students who graduate from Thomas Jefferson continue their education by going to college, the curriculum at Thomas Jefferson must be on a high scholastic level. Nevertheless, Thomas Jefferson does not neglect its business-minded students, the students who will enter the business world immediately after their graduation from high school. The school has set up an entirely separate program for them, a curriculum including courses which will be quite valuable in various fields of the business world. One can readily see that a school which has a high scholastic rating and a well-rounded program at the same time demands of the faculty a greater level of competence. This is most essential in order that the students be well-prepared to face their individual futures with open minds. Well educated teachers do not teach by method, they teach by knowledge. The faculty at Thomas Jefferson is well qualified to instill in the students the basic knowledge which will enable them to become the leaders of tomorrow, the men and women on whom our country will depend.

Seniors at last! This past year, which we have awaited so eagerly, has been filled with exciting moments which will long be remembered. The election last spring of the Student Participation officers marked the actual beginning of our senior year, for members of our own graduating class were to become the leaders of the entire student body. We elected Meade Christian, president; Nancy LaPrade, vice-president; Nancy Lee Leidy, recording secretary; Judy Pollard, corresponding secretary; and Buck Flournoy, treasurer. Also elected at this time were the seven senior senators and the officers of the senior class. All have worked hard for Thomas Jefferson during this past year and have set an example for the rest of the student body to follow. In the fall Thomas Jefferson received a new addition. Alain Werbrouck, foreign exchange student from France, did not waste any time in adjusting to America and Richmond. His personality endeared him to all whom he met, and the Class of 1959 was fortunate in having him share with them both the happiness and the hard work of our senior year. Football, basketball, and baseball games were doubly exciting with our classmates holding leading positions. Nancy Lee Leidy, elected Miss Jeff by the student body, reigned at the annual Thomas Jefferson–John Marshall football game. At the Senior-Junior, entitled "Winter Wonderland," Meade Christian and Sally Sheppard were crowned king and queen and reigned throughout the night. Now that graduation is only a few days away, we suddenly realize how much Thomas Jefferson means to us. Some of us will go to college, while others will accept jobs in various fields of interest. Whatever we may do and wherever we may go, we will always remember Thomas Jefferson, and the ideals it has instilled in us.

Never has the expert advice of Mrs. Mozelle P. Bennett, counselor to the Class of 1959, been more needed than in our senior year. College decisions must be made and plans for the future discussed. The Senior Class is thankful that we had her experience and knowledge to support us. Phyllis Engel discusses some of the problems faced by all seniors with Mrs. Bennett.

The last week of every senior's high school days slips by much too quickly. So many activities take place during this week that each senior has very little time to realize he will soon be a graduate prepared to face the challenges of the adult world. Thoughts turn toward the senior class picnic and the many annual-signing parties which are included in the busy schedule. In these last days each senior stores up many experiences and exciting moments which will become pleasant memories of his last year in high school. Whether it be the wearing of "red and white" to encourage school spirit, senior class day, or the frenzied graduation rehearsals, the memories of our high school days will live forever in our minds. The culmination of this exciting week is the Baccalaureate Service with its serious message and the Commencement Exercise with its "Pomp and Circumstance." After twelve years of studious work we are graduating to a more independent state in life. Those who will go to college will look back with gratitude for the basic knowledge which will be so helpful in that higher institution of learning. Those who will immediately enter the business world will also appreciate the teachings they received in high school. As we walk down the aisle to receive our diplomas, we will have a feeling of both gladness and sorrow. Although we are anxious to face this world on our own, we will miss our school and our friends. Each one of us feels prepared to leave Thomas Jefferson. We feel that the teachings which have been instilled in us have prepared us to be independent, to think for ourselves. Whatever our plans for the future may be, we will always feel secure in that Thomas Jefferson has "taught us how to live."

Junior Class

Only one more year to go! Time passes by too quickly, at least for the juniors. We have just experienced a most memorable year. At the beginning of the year we elected as our officers, Dennis Ownby, president; Susan Hart, vice-president; Ginger Johnston, secretary; and Bates Chappell, treasurer. Once the school year got well under way, the juniors wasted no time in preparing for their Junior Stunt Night. "Once Upon a Spectacular," directed by Martha Riley, certainly was one of the chief attractions of the year. It was quite successful, and, at the same time, it was enjoyed by all the enthusiastic participants. We were not left out of anything this year. Yes, we even had our own cheerleaders. Nancy Pace and Kay Rogers represented us at all the sports events. Of course, we were also there to help our team win. One of the greatest privileges the juniors had was the opportunity to send one of their classmates abroad this summer. There were eleven applicants, but only one lucky junior was chosen after both his mental and physical qualifications were considered by the board of the American Field Service. The spring season found many juniors chattering excitedly about the college boards examinations which they were to take for practice. They may have been hard, but they will certainly be easier when we take them again next year. The last prom of the year came much too soon. The Junior-Senior with the figure was most effective. Everyone had a wonderful time, but all regretted that it meant that the close of another school year was near. Although we worked so hard at times we almost felt like giving up, we juniors are looking forward to our next year as seniors.

Members of the Junior Class have more talent than they realize; it was certainly brought out in their Junior Stunt Night this past year. Many long hours of hard work were spent on this production, but they brought favorable results. "Once Upon a Spectacular," whose plot involved the problems of staging a television spectacular, included various forms of entertainment. Singing and dancing were among the many different acts. The Thomas Jefferson Dance Band added variety by playing various numbers during the evening. Of course, there were the boys' chorus line and the girls' chorus line. The dancing boys were quite amusing, while the girls were quite talented. With everyone working together the show was most successful.

Big smiles of Martha Riley and Mrs. Doris Turner mean more than the end of rehearsals for stunt night. These smiles were for the successful performance of the cast.

Activity! The sophomores certainly emphasized it this past year. Although most of us were new to Thomas Jefferson, we immediately took an active part in the many activities which our school offers. We elected our class officers and two of the five senators last spring. The five hard-working senators encouraged us to undertake various projects, and we congratulate them for the work they did. We were led by the class officers, Melvin Brannan, president; Mary Mena Gill, vice-president; Sue Hungate, secretary; and Gene Overton, treasurer. Our first project of the year was a paper drive which lasted during the greater part of the school year. With everyone participating with an enthusiastic attitude, it was a real success. Selling Thomas Jefferson stickers was another of our many projects. The junior varsity cheerleaders put forth a great deal of effort in selling the stickers, but the student body really made it successful. The bicycle auction was the most exciting project of all. The bicycle stood in the front hall for a few weeks for examination by all. It was awarded to Mr. Padgett, who made the highest bid. Our class volunteered to sell drinks and provide a coat room at the Senior-Junior. We who took part agree that it was a privilege to help our older classmates! Our class dance was the most memorable event of the entire year. Everyone had a wonderful time; we all helped to make it a success. Although we were sorry that this dance was the last event of our sophomore year, we immediately started making plans for our junior year. We elected our class officers and senators who will lead us next year and will make that year a most successful one.

High School! Our first year was one of the greatest experiences of our lives. We began our freshman year by electing our senator, Billy Collins, and our class officers, Patsy Tyler, president; Anne Ferrell Smith, vice-president; Margaret Murdock, secretary; and John Lisman, treasurer. The class drive was the first of the many projects which we shall undertake during our four years at Thomas Jefferson. The money collected helped pay for our class picnic which was held in the spring. Collecting "Lucky Star" wrappers was our second project. The wrappers were sent to the company for a prize, which we later sold. The money was used to pay for our pictures in the annual. Although this was only our first year, we are looking forward to the many wonderful high school days ahead.

. . . Through Cooperation

Activities

Every person must "give a little" and "take a little" in order to obtain harmonious relations. These relations result from a cooperation which exists among people. Cooperation is, therefore, one of the most essential qualities which Thomas Jefferson stresses. Various clubs and organizations were created for the purpose of enabling the students not only to express their ideas freely, but to accept the suggestions made by others. The Thomas Jefferson students are able to manage their own affairs in that they have the power to carry out the activities of the school. The school officers, who are elected by the students, carry out their responsibilities with only one faculty advisor. The closely knit tie which exists between these students and their advisor is really cooperation—the ability to work jointly with one another. Each club and organization at Thomas Jefferson was created by the students, and is controlled by the students. Whether it be a club which enables its members to discuss certain topics of interest, such as the Science Club, or an honorary organization which meets regularly to keep in close contact with one another, such as Quill and Scroll, the key to success is found not in the officers, but in cooperative members. Therefore, by experiencing this cooperative relation as a student, the future will find trying times when this cooperative attitude will bring peace and harmony.

Student Participation Association

"Little Jeff," the school mascot, keeps a watchful eye over the proceedings in Room 408, Senate headquarters.

Upon entering Thomas Jefferson, every student becomes a member of the Student Participation Association. This organization, similar in its makeup to our United States Government, strives for active participation by every member of the student body in affairs pertaining to the school's student life. Plans for the betterment of the school are discussed and acted upon in its two main bodies, the Senate and House of Representatives. The Senate is composed of capable leaders representing each of the four classes, the presidents of these classes, and five S.P. officers. This year the Senate was brightened by the presence of Alain Werbrouck, our French exchange student. As a member of the Senate he had a vote and was able to voice his opinions freely. The S.P. officers and Senators are elected in the spring after a spirited campaign carrying all the political trimmings of speeches, publicity stunts, and eye-catching posters. Delegates were sent to the city, state, and regional S.C.A. Conventions.

Members of the

The House of Representatives, which is composed of a representative from each homeroom, serves as the most successful means of communication between the Senate and the student body. The homeroom representatives are chosen on the basis of character, leadership, scholastic ability, enthusiasm, and willingness to serve. It is their responsibility to carry suggestions from members of their homeroom to the House where action may be taken. Therefore, it is important that every student be alert to new ideas and means of bettering his school if he is to voice his opinion. The vice-president of the S.P. presides over the House of Representatives and acts as a representative from the House at all Senate meetings. The purposes of this year's House were to promote school spirit in as many ways as possible and to develop a closer student-faculty relationship. These aims and others were carried out through various projects sponsored by the House with the support of the entire student body. The year began with a clean-up campaign. This was launched to improve the conditions in the cafeteria and rec hall. With "Take Me to Your Trashcan" as their slogan, members of the House went on duty during all three recesses to remind the students not to leave their trays and milk bottles on the lunch tables. Also, each House member was responsible for one poster publicizing the clean-up campaign. With the cooperation of the Art Department these posters were displayed on the bulletin board in the hall, in each homeroom, and in the cafeteria and rec hall. To remember Alain Werbrouck on his eighteenth birthday, the House planned a celebration which lasted all day. Tags saying "Bonne fete, Alain" were worn by every student. All two thousand of these were made by twenty members of the House. The cafeteria and rec hall were decorated in red and white for the occasion. A Thomas Jefferson ring with the inscription "A.W. - T.J.S.P." was presented to Alain as a surprise gift from all the students. After the ring presentation everyone joined in the singing of "Happy Birthday." At the Christmas assembly Alain was given a gift of seventy-five dollars. He was to use the money to buy a suit and any other accessories he might need. Another Christmas project which the House undertook was the presentation to each member of the faculty of a seasonal corsage or boutonniere. The House also sent Christmas cards to the faculty as well as to Mr. Hancock, our former principal. The idea of having a master of ceremonies for the basketball games originated in the House. Headed by a House committee, various clubs sold soft drinks at the games during half-time. The House also sponsored a sock hop after one of our home games. In the spring the House was responsible for selecting the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders for the coming year. The eligible sophomores and juniors tried out before the present cheerleaders, and some were eliminated by them. The final eliminations were made by House members at a special meeting. One of the last projects of the year was the presentation of a going away present to Alain before he returned to France. All these achievements were a source of satisfaction and real pride, not only to each student representative in the House but also to the students whom he represented.

Board of Coordination

The Board of Coordination, known as the B.O.C., promotes better understanding and cooperation among the various organizations at Thomas Jefferson. It is composed of the officers and sponsor of the Student Participation Association; the presidents and sponsors of the senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman classes; the chairmen of Club Affiliations; and representatives from the cadets, music groups, boys' and girls' athletics, and the literary and business staffs of the publications. Any member of the faculty or student body may appear before the Board to suggest a new activity, to present a problem to be solved, or to propose a change which will benefit the student body as a whole. The B.O.C. tries to give each organization an equal opportunity to carry out its program. Setting up and distributing a calendar for all the major school events was the main duty of this year's B.O.C. Careful planning provided a varied and smoothly running program and eliminated conflicts in dates for meetings, dances, plays, athletic games, and other extra-curricular activities. The B.O.C. also selected a junior to go to Europe this summer as an American Field Service representative.

Miss Bateman, Meade Christian, Miss Lowance and Nancy VanSchreeven, members of the Board of Coordination, interview Jane Trevillian, applicant for American Field Service representative from Tee Jay.

Since its establishment in February, 1957, the Honor Council has striven to promote honest standards among the student body at Thomas Jefferson. Serving in an advisory capacity, they, with the assistance of the Character Committee, have issued and renewed honor cards each semester. The first Honor Code proved quite effective because of the wonderful cooperation on the part of the student body; however, the Honor Council and steering committee of the Character Committee felt a revised code could be helpful in some areas. Therefore, a new code containing two new ideals was incorporated. The new ideals as stated in the revised Honor Code were "I will not condone stealing or vandalism in any form and will conduct myself at all times as a good representative of this school" and "I will endeavor to fulfill all responsibilities delegated me and to uphold the ideals of Thomas Jefferson High School as stated in the school pledge." This revised code went into effect after Honor Week in October. An assembly program during Honor Week emphasized the high ideals of honesty and presented the revised code to the student body. A program, conducted by the Character Committee representatives was presented in each homeroom to introduce the Honor Code to the new students and to give them an opportunity to sign honor cards.

Judy Pollard and Meade Christian, ex-officio members of the Honor Council, make a routine check of honor cards in the file.

Character Committee

Since its establishment in 1945 the Character Committee has been promoting the many phases of character-building as stated in the pledge allegiance to the school—"honesty, courtesy, self-control, cooperation, and obedience to authority, with kindness and justice to all." By encouraging participation in the Honor System, the committee helps the students of Thomas Jefferson become better citizens in their school, home, community, and country. Each homeroom is represented at the monthly meetings, where problems are discussed and ideas exchanged. The steering committee, headed by a Senate chairman, is composed of a representative from each of the four classes. It is their responsibility to work with the faculty sponsor, Mrs. Frances Wimer, in planning programs and activities. After bein familiarized with the programs in advance, the homeroom representative presents them to his homeroom in the most effective manner. It is his duty to bring in suggestions for future programs and speakers. Members of the Character Committee assisted the Honor Council by conducting the signing of the Honor Code in the homerooms. These homeroom representatives also presented programs which stressed the ideals contained in the Honor Code. After investigating six or seven areas, the steering committee decided that the Hillside Court Recreation Center, a federal housing division for low income families, would be an appropriate Christmas project again this year. They were presented with a record player and records, and a party was given for the older groups at the center. The committee always leaves extra money in case some repairs must be made. Last year the Character Committee gave them a television set.

Fifty-cent pieces were attached to cards and given to one hundred men and women at the City Home. These gifts were made possible through contributions made by each homeroom. The Character Committee also joined with the Christian Youth League in presenting the "Singspirations" at Christmas. Since its widespread membership covers many school activities, the programs affect the entire school; therefore, assembly programs, which are sponsored by this committee, are planned with the greatest care. Speakers must be exceptionally qualified to interest and impress young people; and yet, the programs must be serious in purpose as well as popular with the audience. Each year the student body looks forward to the Interfaith Assembly which is sponsored by the Character Committee during Brotherhood Week. Brotherhood Week, observed both nationally and locally, is the most convenient time to stress the idea of better interfaith relations. Three speakers, each outstanding in his faith, represented the Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant faiths. Because of its importance in Thomas Jefferson, the various phases of the school pledge were chosen as the topics for the assembly. In the months of February, March, April, and May, appreciation for churches, sports, teachers, and families was emphasized. Through the use of posters and homeroom programs the Character Committee representatives stressed these important phases of American life. One member of the steering committee was in charge of the program each month. Through these various programs the Character Committee achieved its ultimate aim—to build a better character, and in this way, develop better citizens.

Although the Council of Homeroom Presidents has no executive or lawmaking powers, it has proved to be one of the greatest unifying forces at Thomas Jefferson. Being aware that the Student Participation Association is only as strong as the homerooms which comprise it, the Council of Homeroom Presidents constantly strives to bring about a stronger and closer union between the homerooms and the S.P. During its monthly meetings, the members of the Council discuss problems and ideas that are brought up in the weekly homeroom meetings. These discussions help the presidents perform their duties in an intelligent, well-informed fashion while presiding over their homeroom meetings. Consequently, the meetings are better planned and more orderly because of the experience gained by the presiding officer from the Council meeting. Increasing emphasis has been placed on the Council since it was founded in 1947, because there had been doubt that the homerooms were strong enough to support the Student Participation activities. By informing each homeroom president of the essentials of good leadership, the Council of Homeroom Presidents endeavored to have successful and efficient meetings conducted in each homeroom. The Council met the first Tuesday in each month to plan projects and to consider problems brought up by the students in the homerooms. These were presented to the Council by the homeroom presidents. The first meeting of the Council always necessitates the election of a secretary, a planning committee, and a project committee. Each homeroom president is instructed in good parliamentary procedure and in the art of conducting a homeroom meeting properly and interestingly. Since last year's Council of Homeroom

Presidents successfully held a Leadership Training Conference, the group decided to make the conference an annual affair. "Leadership Makes a Difference" was the theme for this year's leadership clinic held on January 17, at Thomas Jefferson. Helpful criticism and constructive suggestions were made in the general sessions of the clinic, which were followed by different discussion groups. Several topics for the discussion groups were "Parliamentary Procedure," "What Is a Leader and What Are His Responsibilities?" and "Leadership Makes a Difference in Getting Students to Participate." Topics concerning school spirit and the Thomas Jefferson Student Participation Association were also discussed by the Senators. The purpose of the clinic was to enable those students who now hold an office to do a better job, and to prepare those who may hold them in the future to be better fitted for them when the time comes. Because so many people at Thomas Jefferson have the ability to become leaders but do not demonstrate it, the clinic has tried to develop this ability and to broaden his faith in that ability. The clinic was held primarily for homeroom officers, House of Representative members, and club officers; however, anyone else who was interested was invited to attend. The Council of Homeroom Presidents has also assisted in informing the student body of various activities throughout the school. These projects promoted much interest and enthusiasm among the members of the council and others in the student body. The Council of Homeroom Presidents was sponsored by Mrs. Katherine Brumble, and it was presided over by Meade Christian, the Student Participation Association President.

The Thomas Jefferson chapter of the American Red Cross has the same objective as the main body—namely, to help others who are unable to help themselves. Guided by its motto, "We Serve," the Junior Red Cross strives to promote good will and to lend a helping hand to all those in need. Service to others is the most important factor in the Red Cross. A special Red Cross assembly in the fall was devoted to the installation of the new homeroom representatives to the Junior Red Cross. Each representative repeated the following pledge before his fellow classmates—"We believe in service for others, for our country, our community, and our school; in health of mind and body to fit us for greater service; and in working for better human relations throughout the world. We have joined the American Junior Red Cross to help achieve its aims by working together with members everywhere in our own and other lands." In their meetings on the first Friday of every month, the Junior Red Cross representatives from the various homerooms participate in many worthwhile projects. These representatives show a willingness and a desire to help in the work. With the helpful guidance of its sponsor, Miss Sue Beaman, the Thomas Jefferson Chapter has accomplished many outstanding services to the school and community. The Red Cross membership drive was held at Thomas Jefferson from November 1-15. An assembly, "Do Unto Others," stressed the need for individual contributions. In order to have a hundred percent membership, one dollar for every thirty students was needed. Volunteer aides have provided many bright hours for children in the wards at the Medical College of Virginia, and other members have performed numerous and useful jobs at the Red Cross Chapter House such as typing, making posters, and filling gift boxes. At Thanksgiving the stage of the Thomas Jefferson auditorium was filled with brightly decorated baskets filled with canned goods and groceries to be sent to needy families and welfare institutions in Richmond. The food in these baskets was donated by Thomas Jefferson students through their homerooms. Junior Red Cross representatives collected certain articles in their homerooms. These articles were taken to the Red Cross Chapter House, put in Christmas stockings, and taken to the veterans at McGuire's Hospital. For the first time at Thomas Jefferson, the Junior Red Cross sponsored a school chest which was filled with school, health, and recreational supplies. It was the major project of the year. The chest, which measured approximately three cubic feet, was sent to a disaster area, a rural area, or a refugee camp somewhere in the world. Each student participated by contributing such articles as pencils, erasers, paper, balls, soap, toothbrushes and toothpaste to fill up the chest. The final projects of the year were the filling of gift boxes and a correspondence album. Featuring life at Thomas Jefferson, the correspondence album went to a high school in Korea. Each homeroom was asked to aid in the compiling of the necessary materials. Last year a similar correspondence album dealing with Richmond was sent to Korea. Members from the Junior Red Cross also did volunteer work at a local nursing home, and they remembered their shut-in friends with small gifts and visits.

Club Affiliations

Clubs at Thomas Jefferson are organized for the benefit and pleasure of the student body. The club is the place to make new acquaintances, cultivate new interests, and learn the thrill of personal contribution. Different types of clubs appeal to different people, and as the students' interests change, new clubs are formed and old ones dropped. Each club is represented in Club Affiliations, and it must abide by the rules as set forth in the club charter. Composed of one representative from each of the clubs that are officially recognized by the school administration, Club Affiliations is presided over by a Senator and is sponsored by Mrs. Anne Plunkett from the faculty. This group regulates the time and place of each club's meetings in an effort to avoid conflicts. In the meetings the members share constructive ideas and discuss ways to make their club programs more interesting and worthwhile. Members of Club Affiliations strive to increase the participation in their respective clubs, and when a request for a new club is presented, these students help to organize it. If a club wishes to undertake a new project or any type of activity, it must first be approved by Club Affiliations, then it is taken to and passed by the Senate. A member of Club Affiliations visits the meetings of the House of Representatives in order to keep the group informed of the current school business. The Senate Chairman of Club Affiliations is a member of the B.O.C. and represents all the clubs in this capacity. By uniting all the clubs through one organization, each separate club is greatly improved and strengthened.

Christian Youth League

The Christian Youth League, organized in 1953, strives to set forth and to put into daily practice the ideals which are stated in the school pledge—"honesty, courtesy, self-control, cooperation, and obedience to authority with kindness and justice to all." Seeking to give the students at Thomas Jefferson an opportunity to work together for others and to become a part of a world-wide Christian fellowship, the Christian Youth League met every Friday during homeroom period in the cafeteria. The program for these meetings usually consisted of a short devotional message, a prayer by a student, and an outside guest speaker. A student from the University of Richmond and a local minister were the guest speakers for two of the meetings. Through their talks the students applied the qualities of Christianity to everyday life. Working jointly with the Character Committee, the Christian Youth League sponsored carol singing in the auditorium each morning before the Christmas holidays. The entire student body was invited to come and join in the singing, which was broadcast over the public address system. The group showed their holiday spirit again by giving a card shower to some children in the wards at the Medical College of Virginia. The highlight of the year was the spring banquet, which was attended by the members of the Christian Youth League of five area schools. The installation of new officers was the main feature of the banquet, which is held each year in a church of a different denomination. Various groups from the Christian Youth League also broadened their outreach by visiting the City Home and the children's wards at Medical College of Virginia.

The Forum helps students of today prepare to be capable citizens of tomorrow by offering them an opportunity to learn more about their country's policies and interests in world affairs. A knowledge of world affairs is important to every young person as he accepts his position in our modern society; therefore, the Forum selected "Current Events" as their theme for the year. Students with an earnest desire to further their knowledge of the peoples of the world in the past and present times and with an interest in history and current events may become members of this club. Also, these students must be recommended by their history or government teacher at Thomas Jefferson. Through well-informed speakers, group discussions, movies, debates, and panels, members of the Forum were able to keep up-to-date on the current happenings in the world. Alain Werbrouck, our French exchange student, was an appropriate guest speaker for two of the meetings. He spoke on France in general and also the constantly changing government of his country, which has been currently in the news for some time. Another informative talk was presented by a local minister on "communism." The entire group participated in discussions on such topics as the foreign policy, segregation, and current events. In these discussions the members can express their opinions freely concerning affairs which affect our city, state, and nation. Helpful guidance and advice were given by the faculty co-sponsors, Miss LaRue Brandenburg and Mr. Clyde Fortna.

Preparatory Choir

The Preparatory Choir, which meets during the fourth period, serves to develop promising voice students for later service in the A Cappella Choir. The Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs are regular voice classes that are fully organized with officers and accompanists who help Mr. Alton Howell, choir director, with the operation of his classes. The Girls' Glee Club, originally called the Singing Forty, was organized in September, 1945. Fundamentals of music, which are taught, prove quite helpful to those who plan to enter the field of music as a career. Students are taught to conduct and on Mondays the first part of the period is always devoted to discussing radio or television programs for their musical value. Twice each month members of these classes are given opportunities to appear on a talent program as soloists, both vocal and instrumental, and in small ensembles. Those who participate in these programs and show an interest in music, are usually the ones selected for membership in the A Cappella Choir. Members of these classes are encouraged to attend concerts and keep up-to-date on the musical events in Richmond. The lives of various composers, singers, and other musicians are also discussed. The members of the Preparatory Choir and Glee Clubs have taken part in a number of activities in and out of school. They have enjoyed presenting programs in assemblies and giving concerts. Through the preparation of this work they have added greatly to their store of musical knowledge. Some of the girls ushered at the Spring Concert and the operetta, "Kismet." They also served on some of the committees for these presentations.

A Cappella Choir

At any time during the day one can hear the strains of harmonious music coming from room 218. It is in this room that the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, the Preparatory Choir, and the A Cappella Choir practice. The desire of every musically-minded person at Thomas Jefferson is membership in the A Cappella Choir, which is composed of only selected students who have reached the stage of advanced performance. These students must also have a sincere desire to work with others like themselves to create melodious vocal music. Since the A Cappella Choir and the Orchestra meet during the fifth period, it is very convenient for the two organizations to practice together for their joint performances. A year full of varied performances kept the choir constantly working hard to make a good appearance before their critical public. The A Cappella Choir, composed of approximately ninety boys' and girls' voices, sings all types of music from rhythmic spirituals to moving classics. Something new this year was the Thomas Jefferson-John Marshall pep rally which was broadcast over a local radio station. The choirs from both schools participated in the program. The A Cappella Choir also presented a repertoire of religious songs for an evening service at First Baptist Church. Joining with the Thomas Jefferson Orchestra and several other choral societies in Richmond, the A Cappella Choir sang in the performance of Handel's "Messiah" at the Mosque. During the year the choir presented several outstanding programs for the school assembly—the largest of these being at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and the Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. Several representatives from the soprano, alto, tenor, and bass sections of the choir participated in the Eastern division All-State Choir held in February. From this choir thirty students were selected to take part in the All-State Choir in Roanoke. For the annual Spring Concert the Music Department presented a program of varied orchestral and vocal music. The choir felt greatly honored by being asked to participate in the Southern Division of the Music Educators National Convention in Roanoke, Virginia. School choirs from all over the Southern States had been considered to appear on the program for the convention. Proceeds from the Spring Concert went toward financing this trip. It turned out to be a very enjoyable as well as profitable opportunity. "Kismet," a Broadway musical by Robert Wright and George Forrest, was the operetta chosen by the choir to be presented this year. This presentation required many hours of rehearsals after school, but it gave each participant a sense of real satisfaction on opening night. "Kismet," with its setting in exotic Bagdad, was filled with familiar songs such as "Stranger in Paradise," "And This is My Beloved," and "Baubles, Bangles and Beads." Sharing the spotlights were the lead singers, Patsy Clark, Bob Dunville, Alice Ligon, James Barton, and Billy Welsh. The Student Director was Susan Gedney, who was assisted by Mary Ellen Harvey. The Jeffettes, a girls' quartette from the choir, appeared in school programs as well as extracurricular activities. Several class periods were devoted to discussing various musical terms. Through these varied activities the A Cappella Choir increased their knowledge of music by both performing and listening to recordings of well-known choral groups.

The Orchestra

Whether it be a Beethoven symphony, a Strauss waltz, or a Broadway show medley, our forty-six member orchestra can play it with all the polish and technique of a professional group. Under the talented direction of Mr. Frank G. Wendt, the orchestra diligently practices each fifth period in the band room. Additional hours of rehearsal after school are sometimes required to add perfection to their numbers. All of the class time is not spent practicing on their instruments, for the orchestra students have an opportunity to study many of the world's great composers and their works. Regular tryouts are made when the conductor feels that his orchestra needs an incentive to improve their sound. Striving for the honor of being first chair in his section, each member tries his best when his turn comes to try out. He plays a selection from one of the pieces that the orchestra as a whole has been working on. In case of a tie, he must resort to sight reading a piece of music. These tryouts serve as a means of keeping every member of the orchestra trying to play his own instrument to the very best of his ability. Besides appearances at Thomas Jefferson, the orchestra is invited to participate in various civic activities. To start the year off they provided the music for the annual dinner which opened the Community Chest Drive in Richmond. Several members qualified as players in the Richmond Symphony Orchestra. Representatives from the Thomas Jefferson Orchestra participated in the annual State String Orchestra which took place in Arlington, Virginia. The three-day festival was held at Wakefield High School where the participants rehearsed by sections for thirteen hours. In a Sunday concert the group displayed the results of their many hours of effort. The entire orchestra, accompanied by various Richmond choral groups, participated in the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" at the Mosque on December 17. As another civic activity, the string section from the orchestra, consisting of the violins, violas, cellos, and basses, participated in a program at the Musicians Club. For its largest production of the year, the orchestra sponsored the annual Spring Concert. A varied program of orchestral and vocal music was presented by the orchestra and the A Cappella Choir. This year the proceeds went toward financing a trip to Roanoke, Virginia, to perform at the Southern Division of the Music Educators National Conference. At the beginning of the year a letter was sent to Thomas Jefferson requesting that a recording of the orchestra and the choir be sent to the committee for conference. From the recordings sent by numerous Southern high schools, certain ones were chosen to be represented on the program. The orchestra played several solo numbers as well as two selections with the choir. The group left Richmond on April 4, and returned the following day. Working jointly with the A Cappella Choir, the orchestra provided the accompaniment for the operetta, "Kismet." Extra rehearsals outside of school were devoted by the orchestra members to make the show successful. The eventful year was brought to a close by the playing of "Pomp and Circumstance," while the seniors marched down the aisles.

Sponsored by Miss Elizabeth Beaman and Mrs. Lucille King, the Spanish Club continued to grow in size as well as in activities. Membership is not confined to members of the Spanish classes; anyone who is interested in the Spanish language, people, and customs is welcome to join. Their projects were extended to include more outside activities this year. By providing much-needed food, clothing, and money at Christmas for a Mexican family in Richmond, the Spanish Club felt that they were not only lending a helping hand to someone in need, but also learning more about the people in Spanish-speaking countries. A student at Thomas Jefferson from Ecuador spoke to the Spanish Club at one of their monthly meetings. The group asked her questions concerning the school, customs, and recreation in her country. This past summer approximately twenty-five members of the club took a trip to Mexico. Some slides and moving pictures of this trip were shown at one of the other meetings. In order to observe Pan-American Week, the Spanish Club at Thomas Jefferson sponsored an assembly program featuring various talented members in the club. In April some of the members attended the annual Language Banquet at the Hotel John Marshall. Language students from all of the schools in the Richmond area participated in this banquet. This year the club financed itself through the sale of personal stationery, instead of collecting a fixed amount from each individual. In this way each member supported the club according to the amount of stationery that he sold. Through these varied activities it was felt that a more thorough understanding and appreciation of Spanish-speaking people would be secured.

The French Club

Etudiez-vous francais?—Do you study French? If you do, you are welcome to join the French Club. The Thomas Jefferson French Club, known also as Le Cercle Francais, strives to foster an interest in the French language and the customs of the French people. Varied programs have been presented throughout the year in order to further these aims. The extracurricular activities of the club give its members an opportunity to practice conversational French. Of the two meetings each month, one is devoted to business and the other to a program. The presence of Alain Werbrouck, our French exchange student, added much to the activities of the club. At one of the meetings he spoke about his country and his people, and he showed his slides of France at another meeting. Alain was participating in the American Field Service program as a foreign exchange student at Thomas Jefferson this year. His home town is La Madeleine, which is near Lille, France. The French Club was certainly fortunate to have a native of France as an active member of their club. The club also had a Christmas party, and a woman who had lived in France most of her life, shared her knowledge of France with the members of the club. Her experiences were of great interest to the group. A tour of the Fine Arts Museum in Richmond was another of the French Club's activities. At the regular meetings French games, skits, and music helped to enliven the programs, as the group worked to improve skills in the use of French. The French Club, sponsored by Miss Eunice Gill, felt that they had gained a more thorough understanding of and an appreciation of the French language through this year's activities.

The German Club

In order to stimulate an interest in the learning of the German language and the civilization and customs of Germany, the German Club was begun at Thomas Jefferson. The club met every other Friday and included the entire German class. At these meetings the members played games of German origin in which the participants spoke only German. They also had a map contest, a singing session, and a "spelling bee' in German. Each member of the club participated in the German map contest which was judged by the members themselves. The German Club also did other projects that were more worthwhile and beneficial. They adopted a needy family, and they gave them baskets of food for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Singing German Christmas carols in the school halls and selling soft drinks at the home basketball games were two of their other projects. They participated in the Clean-up Campaign by making posters and serving as monitors in the cafeteria and "rec" hall during recess. The German Club also purchased a German song book to be used by the future German classes. A picnic in the spring and movies concerning the German people and their language were some other highlights of the school year. The members of the food committee for the picnic tried to have as much German food on the menu as they could. They played German games, and the new officers were elected at this informal get-together. The German Club, which is under the guidance of Mrs. Thelma Hutton, presented a German skit and a song at the annual Language Banquet. Thomas Jefferson is one of the few schools in Richmond which offers German. The course is new in the Language Department this year. It is taught by Mrs. Hutton, who also sponsors the German Club.

Latin takes on a higher meaning for the students taking advanced Latin when they become members of the Latin Club. To become a member the candidate must endure a rigid initiation enacted by the old members. The initiation of new members is held twice a year—in the fall and early spring. After the initiation all are ready to enjoy the club's activities. The Latin Club, also known as S.P.Q.R., strives to stimulate an interest in Roman customs and practices, to give Latin students an opportunity to learn more about the language than can be given in class, and to convey to the school that Latin is the "Mother of Languages." Composed of members of the Latin 5-8 classes, the Latin Club meets during a class period. Minutes from these meetings are written in Latin and the duty of secretary is rotated around the class. In this way the students learn to put their knowledge to practical use. Every other Monday, programs are presented with such entertainment as Latin quizzes, games, newspapers, and records. The programs are planned to afford entertainment and to promote the general knowledge of Roman customs. The members of the Latin Club celebrate Virgil's birthday and hold a Roman banquet each year. The Roman Banquet acquaints the new members with the customs of Caesar's time and gives the masters an opportunity to demonstrate their superiority over the slaves. A picnic in the spring, introducing the prospective members and participation in the annual Linguarama, round out a year of varied activities for the Latin Club, sponsored by Miss Frances Gray.

Quill and Scroll

When the chapter of Quill and Scroll was first established at Thomas Jefferson during the 1944-1945 session, the total membership consisted of only nine students. Since that time their number and importance in school life have greatly increased. It was not until ten years later that the chapter here at Thomas Jefferson was appropriately named the Ellen Glasgow Chapter of the Quill and Scroll. Ellen Glasgow, an American novelist, was born in Richmond and most of her literary work was chiefly concerned with the history of the South during the Reconstruction Period. The purpose of the Quill and Scroll Society is to encourage and reward individual achievement in journalism and allied fields and to take an active part in raising journalistic standards. By working on either the business or literary staff of the Monticello, the annual, or the Jeffersonian, the bi-weekly newspaper, one may become eligible for membership in the Quill and Scroll. "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall set ye free" is the motto of the Ellen Glasgow Chapter of Quill and Scroll. In order to give recognition to those students who have done outstanding work on the publications at Thomas Jefferson, the Quill and Scroll has both a spring and fall candle light initiation service. In the spring the service is held at a special assembly and in the fall it is held after school. A student must be a junior or a senior. To become a member of this international honorary society, he must have worked on a school publication for at least one year. In addition to doing outstanding journalistic work, he must maintain a scholastic average of "B" or better, he must be recommended by his staff advisor, and before membership is final, he must be approved by the national executive secretary. The impressive initiation service is presented by those who are members of Quill and Scroll at the time. Each participant lights a candle from the center candle, which represents the candle of Truth. The other candles which are lit from Truth represent Initiative, Opportunity, Leadership, Loyalty, Enlightenment, and Friendship, all of which are essential of good journalism. From the concentrated flames of the candles, the initiates light their own candles and repeat the Quill and Scroll pledge—"I do pledge myself to do all in my power to work for the advancement of my community, to be loyal to my superiors, to live up to the ideals of true journalism, and to be impartial in my interpretation of Truth." After repeating the pledge, the new members are presented with their Quill and Scroll pins. At the conclusion of the induction they are congratulated by their parents and friends at an informal gathering. Those who were inducted in the fall had refreshments after school and the parents and members of the faculty were invited to attend. The faculty sponsors for the Quill and Scroll are Mrs. Thelma Hutton and Miss Estelle Tankard, who advise the Jeffersonian Business Staff and Jeffersonian Literary Staff respectively. The meetings of the Quill and Scroll, which were on every second Tuesday of the month, were rotated by having program and business meetings. Mr. Charles McDowell, feature columnist for the "Richmond Times Dispatch", spoke to the Quill and Scroll and any other interested persons from the student body. His talk on journalism was given to aid those who were interested in writing. The Quill and Scroll also visited the Metropolitan Engravers and took a tour of the building.

The Jeffersonian

The heartbeat of the school, the Jeffersonian, reflects the ideas and activities of every phase of student life at Thomas Jefferson. Information on school events, light articles about students, and both coverage and feature stories on athletics are presented through the three main departments of the literary staff—news, feature, and sports. The heads of these staff departments not only send out story assignments, but they are responsible for all material printed on their pages. Each department has two pages of this six-page, bi-weekly newspaper. Page editors draw up dummies, measure and proofread stories, and write headlines. Typists and student photographers, who develop their own pictures, contribute to the production of the Jeffersonian. Although most positions on the literary staff are held by seniors, the 5xj and 6xj journalism classes are the channels through which flows the life blood of the paper. These junior students serve as reporters and runners to the printer. The rigid schedule of the paper requires two periods a day, time before and after school, and occasionally time at night. The editor, assistant editor, and advisor supervise the entire staff, and they are responsible for the publishing of the Jeffersonian. The editorial board, composed of those in the top positions, conducts the editorial column and sets policies. After many years the Jeffersonian took on a new look because of the various changes that were made this year. The paper was printed on newsprint instead of graded book paper as in last year's. Also, the name plate was changed. Instead of the "ears," pictures of the school and of Thomas Jefferson were placed on the right and left of the name plate. There was no cadet column this year. Instead, the cadet news was covered in each issue as other clubs and organizations are. A new feature column, "Three For All,'" had three mystery writers. "Locker Room Lingo" was the new sports column. Improvements in the paper came from self-criticism in staff meetings, helpful advice from Miss Estelle Tankard, the faculty advisor, and representation at various press conferences. Eight members of the literary staff and Miss Tankard attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Convention in New York City. Delegates were also sent to the Southern Interscholastic Press Association Convention held at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Virginia. From these meetings, helpful ideas were brought back to improve the Jeffersonian. As a reward for superior work and outstanding service on the Jeffersonian Literary Staff, eligible juniors and seniors, meeting the scholastic requirements, were recommended for membership in Quill and Scroll.

The Jeffersonian Business Staff

The Advertising and Circulation Staffs, advised by Mrs. Thelma Hutton, promote the business end of the Jeffersonian. The Advertising Staff is composed of a manager, an exchange editor, and a group of copywriters and solicitors. The manager makes up the advertising layout for the pages, gives assignments to the solicitors, and handles the filing and billing. The exchange editor has contact with school newspapers all over the United States in order to give and to receive information and new ideas. The solicitors contact local business concerns, and the copywriters work with the advertisers in preparing the desired copy. The important objective of the advertising department is to train students in the proper approach to business problems. The Circulation Staff, which handles all duties pertaining to subscriptions, is divided into three groups—captains, lieutenants, and managers. At the beginning of each semester the Circulation Staff promotes a drive for term subscriptions of seven issues for sixty cents. Money, taken up by the lieutenants from their homerooms, is collected by the captains. This staff also handles the mailing list for alumni of the school and complimentary subscriptions. For several years the business staff has won recognition from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

The Monticello

The Monticello, a treasured momento of the year spent at Thomas Jefferson, tells the story of the 1958-1959 school year through pictures, art, and writing. Every Jeff takes pride in his annual, but few realize the hard task undertaken by the members of the literary and business staffs. To become a member of the literary staff, a student must be above average in his studies and must show ability to work hard in order to produce an accurate account of school life in the current year. The ultimate goal of the Monticello Literary Staff is to produce for the school the best annual possible. In attempting to achieve this goal a great deal of hard work is done, and much time and energy is spent by all the staff members. With the assistance of the business staff, an appropriate and workable theme is chosen. In order to obtain necessary and accurate information, questionnaires are always distributed to individuals and organizations desiring to be represented in the yearbook. Copy from various groups is revised and edited by the staff. By dividing the book into several sections—faculty, classes, clubs, military, sports, and school life, the members of the literary staff are given an opportunity for creative work and organization. It is necessary that each page for the book be drafted in a complete dummy, and the art work to be used throughout the book must be prepared. To identify persons in each picture and to caption and crop each picture to be used is, in itself, a tremendous job and one that required the aid of every staff member. The name lists must also be rechecked for spelling and the deadlines met. The Monticello is always well represented at the conventions of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the Southern Interscholastic Press Association. The previous year's annual is evaluated by the conventions' judges and each annual is given a rating. The Monticello was proud of its first place rating last year. Discussions with annual staff members from different schools gave the representatives from the Monticello many new ideas to put to use in the next yearbook. The hardworking staff is more than rewarded in the great satisfaction it experiences when the annual finally appears at the gala spring banquet. On this festive occasion the staff for the coming year is announced and positions on the staff assigned. Excitement reigns supreme at the first glimpse of the new Monticello. Immediately plans begin to take form for making the next year's annual, which is better always than the previous year's book. The yearbook this year was successful only through effective planning, leadership of our editors, the cooperation of each staff member and the willing assistance of Miss Alma Lowance, faculty sponsor.

The Monticello

Sporting the necessary skill of good salesmanship, the Monticello Business Staff handles the finances of the annual, including advertisements and subscriptions. In order to have the Monticello ready for the eager students, the staff members must secure advertising contracts from various merchants, take the junior, senior, and organization pictures, arrange and compile "ad" proofs to be sent to the printer, and solicit sales for the annual. Under the guidance of Miss Frances Gray, the work is accomplished with relatively few difficulties. Every Friday a business meeting is held in room 107, and members discuss advertising contracts, the budget, and practices of the business world. From these discussions the students acquire a knowledge which will prove beneficial to them in the future. From September to June the Monticello Business Staff was a busy group of people. In the fall term these business tycoons were busy with selling advertising space to Richmond business firms, arranging for individual junior and senior pictures, selling annuals through the homerooms, and photographing the freshman and sophomore homerooms and the various school organizations. In the spring term they were busy writing up and arranging the advertisements and collecting the money from the ads from the business firms. They had the ad proofs checked by the advertisers, and they were in charge of distributing annuals to every student or faculty member who purchased one. They also mailed annuals to the February graduates who were not at Thomas Jefferson in June. Because of the importance of photographs in the make-up of an annual, the Monticello photographers had the enormous and important job of recording all the varied phases of school life at Thomas Jefferson. The boys, who carried their pet "birdies" and counted expertly to three before snapping the picture, were relied on by both the business and literary staffs. By working on the staff the members gain more self-confidence and learn to accept responsibility. Learning to work together to get a job done is good experience for every student. In addition, the staff members acquire knowledge which will be useful in their future vocations. Each year eligible juniors and seniors are admitted into Quill and Scroll as a reward for their faithful service. Of course, the staff always welcomes suggestions for improvement. Delegates are sent to two press conventions each year. Attending classes and comparing our annual with others aids in the improvement of our book so that the next edition will excel those of the previous years. Highlighting the year is the spring banquet, given by both Monticello staffs. Here new members are welcomed, new staff positions announced, and all duly rewarded with the premiere presentation of the year's annual.

Library Staff

The Library Staff is composed of student assistants who work in the library during their study periods. There are usually two or three students working each period. One student is assigned to the desk to sign out books, receive books, slip books, answer questions, and perform the other routine duties of the desk. The other students check and shelve books, carry necessary messages, and assist the two librarians in their many duties. These students alternate their work every week so that they might become familiar with all phases of library work. Some of the other duties are filing catalog cards, mending books, and preparing new books for circulation. To become a member of the Library Staff a student must pass all subjects and must be interested in library work. The staff met twice during each term—once for a business meeting and once for a program. The main reasons for the business meeting were to elect a new slate of officers, to introduce the new members to the staff, and to bring up any other unfinished business or general announcements. Alain Werbrouck, the foreign exchange student, spoke on his native country of France at the program meeting. His talk appealed to the members of the staff because Alain had worked in the library at his own French school. Rosamond duJardin, a well-known modern fiction writer, was another guest speaker for the Library Staff. All other interested students and faculty members were invited to attend this meeting. Special displays for events such as Book Week and National Education Week were provided for the showcase outside of the library by a special art staff.

Chemistry Laboratory Assistants

Being a chemistry laboratory assistant is a combination of work and fun. One has an excellent opportunity to explore the vast realms of chemicals, and even occasionally gives first aid to the poor student who hasn't learned that a test tube is hot after being heated. Any boy or girl interested in chemistry, if recommended by their respective instructors as being capable and dependable, may be appointed to serve as laboratory assistant during his study period. Also, he must have acquired a good attendance record, and he must live up to the ideals for which Thomas Jefferson stands—"honesty, courtesy, self-control, cooperation, and obedience to authority." Although it is volunteer work, one must live up to these standards or he will not be asked to serve another term. Chemistry laboratory assistants are on duty for one period daily in 325, where all the chemicals and other equipment are stored. They unlock and lock the desks in the laboratory at the beginning and at the end of the period. The assistant on duty assists Miss Gill, the faculty sponsor, in preparing the chemicals, and he has charge of the stock. In addition, he must keep all the acid bottles and other storage bottles filled, thereby keeping the laboratory constantly ready for the incoming classes. The chemistry laboratory assistants also run errands and help students who are behind in their work. Although laboratory assistants are not alternated in shifts, as many committees are, the students still find ample time for studying.

The biology lab assistants, who are in charge of the biology equipment and materials in 3A, are quite similar to the chemistry laboratory assistants. Their main duty is to relieve the science teachers of some of the more monotonous aspects of their work. It is the responsibility of the biology lab assistants, sponsored by Mrs. Ruth Browning, to prepare the microscopes, slides, and specimens for the incoming classes each day. They must deliver the materials to the five biology classrooms when they are needed, and later collect these materials and return them to their proper places. In this way they are able to keep 3A in order as well as render a valuable service to the teachers. Students who have had one year of science find that serving in the laboratory brings bonus benefits in the forms of S.P. points and inside study and knowledge. With approximately four assistants assigned to each period, these helpers worked during their study.

Science Club

The Science Club, one of the youngest clubs at Thomas Jefferson, strives to promote an interest in science among the student body at Thomas Jefferson. Anyone who is interested in science or a science-related subject is welcome to join the club, whose faculty sponsor is Miss Virginia Ellett. In order to gain more scientific knowledge, the Science Club took part in various outside activities. They worked on individual projects under the guidance of some local industrial scientists and participated in several local science television shows. These television shows were sponsored by the American Chemical Society and the Virginia Engineering Society. The Science Club also took guided tours through various industrial laboratories in and around Richmond. Among these was an "In Search of Science" trip to the American Tobacco Company's research laboratory. The president of the Science Club was also president of the Junior Academy of Science.

The Thomas Jefferson Engineers' Club, a member of the Junior Academy of Science, has striven to promote an interest in the field of engineering among the student body. It has given its members an opportunity to use their skills and to learn more about their future vocation in the field of engineering. Anyone who has a sincere desire to explore the opportunities open to young men entering the engineering profession and has had at least one year of a related scientific subject is welcome to join the club. For their project this year the boys constructed a transit, which is used in surveying. The club divided up into several groups, and each group worked on a particular part of the transit. At the meetings, held once a week, the Engineers' Club further explored the complex field of engineering by hearing lectures given by professional engineers. The group, sponsored by Mr. Arthur Allison, also took a tour of the new Reynolds Metal Building in Richmond.

Radio Committee

"Good morning! Today is . . . ." With these words the members of the Radio Committee greet the student body at Thomas Jefferson every morning. The daily announcements, an essential part of the school's routine, begin at 8:45 A.M. over the public address system. Notices concerning the time and place for meetings, contests, sports, and other coming events are broadcast through the homerooms in order to inform the faculty and students of any matters of current interest. Sponsored by a different club each week, a short devotion is presented when the announcements have been completed. These inspirational messages and prayers supply a good thought for the rest of the day. While on the air the Radio Committee strives earnestly to achieve clarity and accuracy. Students who make the announcements are selected from the advanced speech classes by their sponsor, Miss Rosalind Marks.

The National Thespian Society was created to reward and honor those devoted to the advancement of dramatic arts in secondary schools. Membership in Thespians, a national dramatic honor society, is highly sought by all students interested in any of the facets of play production. The qualifications for members of the Thespians, Chapter 741, are an interest in dramatics, a minimum of ten service points in dramatic activities, and the dramatics' teacher's recommendation of each candidate. Service points may be gained by actual acting on the stage at school and in the community, or by serving as stage hands, understudies, or committee chairmen. Members are chosen according to their participation in such productions as the Senior Class Play, Junior Stunt Night, assemblies, the Operetta, or in community theatres. Mrs. Josephine Kritzer, dramatics' teacher, sponsors the Thespian, Chapter 741.

Stage Crew

"Turn down the mikes," "lower that back drop," "up the legs," and "kill that spot" were familiar expressions to the skilled members of the stage crew, sponsored by Mr. Alton Howell. These boys were responsible for preparing the stage for each assembly program and clearing it at the end of the production. Being in charge of the microphones, stage lights, and curtains and making sure that they were safe were among their other varied duties. It was necessary for the chairman of the stage crew to consult the sponsor of each assembly program in advance to find out exactly what was expected of the crew. Two members were on duty each period to keep the stage ready for use. Special preparation was required for the Junior Stunt Night, the Senior Class Play, the Operetta, P.T.A. meetings, and other activities which required the use of the stage equipment. If one wonders what makes a show a success, the stage crew is the answer.

Future Nurses' Club

The Future Nurses' Club was organized to present the various branches of the nursing field to interested girls so that they might decide on their future profession. In order to further the knowledge of the members in the field of medicine, the Future Nurses' Club has heard many informative speakers talk on nursing and hospital administration. There have also been lectures on the work of laboratory, medical, and x-ray technicians. This has increased the club's knowledge and appreciation of a medical career. The student nurses at Stuart Circle Hospital invited the Future Nurses' Club to a tea and tour of the hospital. Each month, following the trip to Stuart Circle, they visited a different Richmond hospital and attended a tea. Volunteer work was done in several Richmond hospitals to further acquaint the girls with the medical field. Also, field trips and films have increased the interest of the members of the club. They went Christmas caroling at McGuire's Hospital, and the highlight of the year was a trip to the University of Virginia in Charlottesville to visit the School of Nursing. In order to picture accurately the entire field of nursing, the Future Nurses' Club had an occupational therapist and a physical therapist as guest speakers. Also, a college representative described to the group the college program that one must follow in preparing for a career in nursing. Besides the guidance of their faculty sponsor, Mrs. Mary Sweet, the Future Nurses' Club has been fortunate to be assisted by Mrs. A. K. Sutphin and Mrs. A. M. Edmonds, the wives of two Richmond doctors, from the Women's Auxiliary to the Richmond Academy of Medicine.

With membership based on participation in school activities and a scholastic average of C+ or better, twenty-one new members were initiated into the William H. Deierhoi Chapter of the Future Teachers of America in the fall. The F.T.A. seeks to enable its members to study the qualities, traits, and aptitudes which relate to successful teaching; to acquire an understanding of the history and development of our public school system; and to secure accurate information on vocational opportunities in education. Through program and business meetings the F.T.A. leads its members to acquire knowledge, to make worthy friends, to strengthen their personality, and to use their influence for the improvement of their home, school, and community. In September the F.T.A. took flower arrangements to the new faculty members in an effort to make them feel at home and welcome. For observance of Teacher Appreciation Week, the F.T.A. presented each teacher with a traditional red apple. Attached to each apple were paper leaves containing an appropriate verse and the teacher's name. Thomas Jefferson's F.T.A., sponsored by Mrs. Frances Wimer, acted as hostess for the State Student VEA convention held in Richmond on November 14 and 15. Two voting delegates, elected by the members of the club, attended the business meetings and several other members provided entertainment for a talent show. As one of their service projects, the F.T.A. entertained the children in one of the wards at Medical College of Virginia. At Christmas they took small gifts to the children, and once a month a small group went after school to play games and talk with them.

The Book Club

The Thomas Jefferson Book Club was organized in 1945 by a group of students interested in books, both old and new. Today the same interest attracts members to the club. The members of the Book Club strive to broaden their knowledge through literature and to spread enthusiasm and a greater appreciation for books throughout the school. Book discussions, book reviews, and other activities were part of the Book Club meetings which were held after school on the second Monday of each month. Professional book reviewers and capable students were asked to review books for the group. The Book Club has submitted book reviews to the Declaration, Thomas Jefferson's magazine, in the past, but the Declaration was not published this year. Programs included dramatizations, book reviews by visiting speakers, motion pictures of interesting books, and contests. The dramatics class put on a program of skits, taken from various plays and books, for the enjoyment of the Book Club. The dramatizations brought the characters to life. The group also attended movies, whose text had been taken from a well-known book. One of these was "Rally Round the Flag Boys." Besides arranging interesting exhibits for the display case outside the library, the Book Club cooperated with the library in promoting Book Week. They also contributed books to the library and sent representatives to the Children's Book Council of Richmond. Invitations to join the Book Club are sent each term to students who are recommended by other members and by teachers in the English Department. Others who are interested are invited by radio announcements. Under Miss Esther Singleton's sponsorship and guidance, the Book Club has gained a greater knowledge and appreciation of literature.

Business Education Club

The Business Education Club aids in preparing its members to meet the stiff requirements of the business world and acquainting them with the employer's point of view. Membership is open to all students who are taking at least one business subject. Those who have a keen interest in business and a desire to meet others of similar interests are most frequently those who have become members of the club. A direct contact with the business world was established through trips to local banks and various other business offices in Richmond. Among those visited this year were the Telephone Company, Southern States Cooperative, and the new Lawyers' Title Building. Key persons in the business world today have offered many suggestions and helpful advice at the meetings which are held twice a month. Through these talks the business men have tried to tell the members of the Business Education Club exactly what is expected of a high school student when he or she is applying for a position after graduation. One of their projects for the year was handling a central Christmas card mail box for the use of the student body. These cards, addressed according to homeroom numbers, were delivered by the Business Education Club members before school and during homeroom period. Since bowling has become so popular with high school students, the Business Education Club decided to form a bowling team to compete against other club teams at Thomas Jefferson. The Bookkeeping Club and the Business Education Club held their annual joint picnic in the Spring. Members of the Alumni Association, who were guests at the picnic, gave many helpful hints as to what they had experienced in their recent contacts with the world of business.

The main purposes of the Bookkeeping Club are to give its members an opportunity to better acquaint themselves with the modern business world and to further their interest in bookkeeping. Membership is open to those students who are now taking bookkeeping or to those who have taken the subject in the past. Students with an active interest in business subjects are especially welcomed into the club, which is sponsored by Mrs. Isebelle Burden. Various business leaders from the community were invited as guest speakers for the monthly meetings. Representing many local firms and business organizations, these men and women offered invaluable suggestions and advice to those who would be bookkeepers in the near future. Many helpful hints were given as to ways of successfully applying for positions after graduation. Among the guest speakers were a Certified Public Accountant, a Personnel Director, and a Co-ordinator between the schools and business firms. One program was devoted to discussing the different professions that branch from bookkeeping—for example, business teaching and C.P.A. work. In the spring members of the club visited a nearby bookkeeping office in order to observe the procedures there. In this way, they were able to see what would be expected of them when they entered their future profession. There was also time for recreation in the form of parties and informal gatherings during homeroom period. At the end of the term a joint picnic was held at Bryan Park for the Business Education and Bookkeeping Clubs. The alumni were invited to attend.

Last year the Pep Club was a new experience for Thomas Jefferson. The membership was too large to accomplish anything worthwhile the first term, so it was disbanded in order to reorganize. A new constitution was drawn up, in which the size and other factors were more strictly regulated. Again this year the officers of the Pep Club found it necessary to further revise their constitution so that the club could function better. Under the provisions of the revised constitution, the Pep Club members are selected from the student body at large rather than on a direct homeroom representation basis. Membership is for the duration of the individual's stay at Thomas Jefferson. New members are chosen by the varsity cheerleaders on the basis of their written applications for membership. This written application includes a paragraph containing the applicant's reason for desiring membership. The total roster of the club is limited to seventy-five, including all the varsity cheerleaders and two junior varsity cheerleaders. In order to carry out their main objective, promoting school spirit, the Pep Club participated in various activities. They sent the varsity cheering squad to a cheer rally held in the Benedictine High School gym on October 18. The cheerleaders gave one cheer and one song to be judged by a group of college cheerleaders. The Pep Club attended several of the football and basketball games in a group in order to support their teams. They advertized each up-coming game by making posters which they displayed in the halls. They sold red and white shakers and "Beat Hermitage" cards to heighten school spirit and interest in the Thomas Jefferson-Hermitage football game. For the Thomas Jefferson-John Marshall game they decorated the float for Miss Jeff and her court. Members of the Pep Club have purchased new red and white pins in the shape of megaphones with "Tee Jay Pep Club" written on them. These will become the official pin for the club. For the home basketball games members of the Pep Club made "Welcome" banners for the visiting teams. Also, they gave out basketball programs at the door. The Senate and the Pep Club jointly sponsored the "Whispering 'Beat J.M.' " contest. The winner of this contest was the thirteenth person who whispered "Beat J.M." to Mr. X. The lucky person, who received five dollars, was announced at the Thomas Jefferson-John Marshall basketball game. The Pep Club also sold programs for the Central District Basketball tournament. Later in the year the Pep Club sold "Tee Jay" stickers to be put on automobile windows. The Pep Club also discussed the possibility of having boys on the cheering squads once again. This was the policy several years ago; however, interest on the part of the boys was lost, so the practice was discontinued indefinitely. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Haywood Padgett, the Pep Club has become better organized this year and has carried out many worthwhile projects to build an active school spirit at Thomas Jefferson.

Developing initiative and leadership, serving the school and community, promoting the adoption and application of higher standards in scholarship, sportsmanship, and social contacts, and maintaining a high idealism for the increase of righteousness, justice, and patriotism are the main purposes of the Key Club. Members of the Key Club, an international organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, are elected proportionately from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. They are chosen for high scholastic standing, leadership ability, initiative, and outstanding character. The international motto is "We Build". Under the sponsorship of Mr. Adrian Bendheim, Kiwanis representative; Mr. Paul Kirk, faculty sponsor; and this year's capable officers, the Key Club functioned similarly to its patron club. Projects, both money-making and volunteer service, constituted the club's main activities along with several social events during the year. The Key Club helped a Negro mother and her five children by giving them food and toys. The boys provided for the same family at Thanksgiving and found them to be so appreciative that they decided to aid them again at Christmas. The members of the Key Club also sold soft drinks at one of the Sock Hops, served on the "rec" hall committee, and sold pencils with "Thomas Jefferson High School" printed on them. Representatives were sent to the annual Capital District Convention held in Baltimore, Maryland, on March 6-8. This convention was beneficial to all those who attended. It gave the participants an insight into all phases of Key Club activities, and it also helped the officers-elect in formulating new ideas to be used in the coming year.

Harry A. Woody Club

The Harry A. Woody Club, formerly known as S.P. 123, was named to honor its former sponsor, Mr. Harry A. Woody. Mr. Woody, faithful friend to all, was a teacher at Thomas Jefferson until his retirement in 1957. He was extremely interested in young people and promoted this boys' organization which strives to serve the school. Membership is limited to thirty sophomore, junior, or senior boys of outstanding character. Prospective members must first seek membership to the club by written application. These applications are reviewed and the applicants are screened and voted on by the present members of the club. The Harry A. Woody Club strives to serve Thomas Jefferson, as Mr. Woody did so well, and to help promote school spirit by attending football games as a group and selling "Beat J.M." cards to the student body. Members of the club were on duty in the lunch rooms in an effort to keep our eating places clean. They also assisted with the Thanksgiving baskets which were sent to needy families. In addition to contributing to the Character Committee Christmas Project, members of the Harry A. Woody Club gave five dollars to the Christmas Mother Fund. The club sponsored various social functions, and during Mr. Woody's illness they visited him as often as they could. The group attended church services together and sponsored various fund-raising projects in order to contribute toward the betterment of Thomas Jefferson. Through these various activities the members of the Harry A. Woody Club have learned to work together in order to achieve a goal that is worthwhile. Mr. Carl Bolt has sponsored the Harry A. Woody Club since Mr. Woody's retirement.

To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character are the main objectives of the Hi-Y. They also strive to set a good example of clean living, clean speech, clean scholarship, and clean sportsmanship at Thomas Jefferson. Since the Hi-Y clubs are closely affiliated with the Young Men's Christian Association, many of the activities of the Thomas Jefferson chapter take place at the downtown Y.M.C.A. building on Franklin Street. Facilities for basketball, swimming, and other indoor sports are available to be used by the members of the Richmond area Hi-Y chapters. Hi-Y II meets every week for a business meeting followed by either a guest speaker, a movie, or some other planned activity. Aside from these regular programs, members of Hi-Y II assumed various projects both in school and in the community. They served in the "rec" hall and cafeteria during all three recesses to keep order and relieve congestion. Hi-Y II also sold programs at all of the home football games. For a Christmas project they gave a dinner and toys to the children of a needy family which they adopted through the Welfare Agency. Hi-Y II participated in a city-wide Hi-Y project, "Building for Brotherhood," and raised money to help build Y.M.C.A.'s in other countries. The morning devotions, which were inaugurated by the Hi-Y in 1957, are now given daily over the public address system. Mr. Haywood Padgett, their faculty sponsor, was always ready to advise and assist Hi-Y II whenever he was needed. Hi-Y is not only interested in training its members physically and socially, but it also endeavors to develop the high ideals and standards of good conduct.

The goal of the Tebahoes, a girls' athletic club, is to develop and extend high standards of integrity and to make their school a better place for clean thinking and living through the observance of sportsmanship. The name Tebahoes is derived from the first letters of the girls' sports which are offered at Thomas Jefferson—tennis, basketball, hockey, and softball. A girl must have at least one varsity award on a school team plus the qualifications of cooperation, character, and the spirit to uphold the high ideals of sportsmanship to become eligible for membership. Awards are given according to the number of years a girl has played on a varsity team. A letter is awarded for the first year, a medal the second, a silver charm the third, and a bracelet the fourth. At the end of each athletic season a banquet is held for the team, and the awards are presented. Under the sponsorship of Miss Edith Todd, the Tebahoes enjoyed programs and activities stressing good character and sportsmanship. As a service to the school, members of the Tebahoes served on a cafeteria committee. They presented a skit in the freshman assembly, and they presented a program for the new girls at Thomas Jefferson, encouraging them to participate in sports. After filling several baskets with food, clothing, and toys, they were presented to an appreciative needy family by the Tebahoes. The Teacher-Tebahoes basketball game entertained the faculty as well as the students. Proceeds from this game and other fund-raising projects went toward buying useful equipment for girls' athletics.

Y-Teens, Triangle I

Y-Teens provides excellent opportunities to develop a girl's ability as a leader and broaden her horizons. Y-Teens, a junior branch of the central Young Women's Christian Association, has as its purpose to build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians. They also try to achieve a better understanding with people of other races, nationalities, and religions. With membership open to any interested girls, Y-Teens offers to every girl at Thomas Jefferson a chance to belong and work with others for the good of the school and the community. In 1957 Y-Teens, Triangle I, fell apart because of lack of interest; however, a group of ambitious juniors revived the club and drafted a new constitution. Y-Teens, Triangle I, has now grown to a membership of approximately fifty girls. A get-acquainted party was held at the beginning of the year with attendance open to the girls who planned to join the club. Emphasis has been put on both service and fun as the girls have carried out various projects during the year. Through the Volunteer Service Bureau, members of Y-Teens, Triangle I, worked on Saturday mornings at the City Home. They found that many of the patients were making mats, china banks, pot holders, and various other items with the hope of selling them. The Y-Teens members took this opportunity to serve as salesladies by taking the items home and selling them. They also washed dishes and fed some of the patients at the City Home. Y-Teens, Triangle I, attended some of the football and basketball games as a group. Usually a gab session and food fest followed at a member's home. During the Christmas season, Y-Teens, Triangle I, went caroling at the Medical College of Virginia, and they also gave a party for a group of Salvation Army children. Alain Werbrouck, the foreign exchange student, portrayed Santa Claus, and presents and refreshments were given to the children. Y-Teens, Triangles I and II, held a joint Christmas party at the downtown Y.W.C.A. At Eastertime they gave a party at the Crippled Children's Hospital. The main source of the club's treasury came from the sale of potato chips. On several occasions a group from Y-Teens, Triangle I, got together to go from house to house in their neighborhood selling the potato chips. This added more fellowship to their business venture. Representatives from both chapters of Y-Teens attended the National Vesper Service held at the Cathedral Church of Saint Peter and Saint Paul in Washington, D. C. Delegates were also sent to the Mid-Winter Y-Teen Convention in Danville, Virginia. By exchanging ideas these representatives acquired new skills and learned to put their old knowledge to better use in their own groups. An interesting film was the theme around which one of the programs for their after-school meetings was built. Some of their other activities were bridge parties, informal get-togethers, and a house party in the spring. Mrs. Lucille King, the faculty sponsor, assisted the officers in planning their activities and supported each of the projects enthusiastically. Members of Y-Teens are also members of the local Y.W.C.A. and of a world-wide fellowship organization for women and girls. Of the club's one dollar dues per year, fifty cents goes for membership in the Y.W.C.A.

Y-Teens, Triangle II

Among the goals that the members of Y-Teens sought to attain this year were growth as a person, growth in friendship with all people, and growth in the knowledge and love of God. Y-Teens, Triangle II, started off their social program with a tea honoring their new members. The main purpose of the tea was to help the old and new members become better acquainted. Bermuda parties, dances, and splash parties at the downtown Y.W.C.A. resulted in fun and fellowship for all the girls in the club. Y-Teens, Triangle II, attended some of the football and basketball games as a group and in this way showed their school spirit. A fashion director from one of Richmond's large department stores was a guest speaker who delighted everyone attending that meeting. She displayed samples of her store's new line of spring clothes. Slides of Mexico and an interesting talk by Alain Werbrouck, our foreign exchange student, comprised the programs for two other meetings. As a Christmas project Y-Teens, Triangle II, carried food, a decorated tree, and toys to four small children in a needy family. Conducting an Easter egg hunt at the Methodist Children's Home was one of their other projects, both in and out of school. The highlight of the year was the presentation of the Alma V. Lowance Y-Teen Award, which is given to a deserving girl who has shown the qualities of honesty, obedience, cooperation, self-control, and leadership. Mrs. Marian Finch, the faculty sponsor, and Mrs. Carolyn Meijer, the Teen-age Director of the Richmond Y.W.C.A., gave invaluable advice and help to Y-Teens, Triangle II.

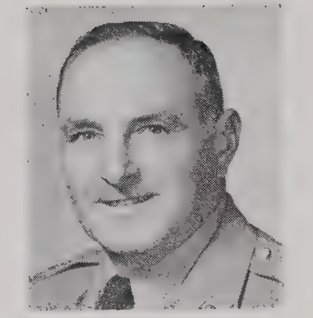
. . . Through Discipline

Military

Thomas Jefferson set up a military system in 1942 to enable each boy to have the opportunity of preparing himself for future military service, and, at the same time, to be obedient to authority. This obedience is set up through habit, for every cadet realizes his responsibility in obeying his superiors. The Thomas Jefferson military system is patterned after that of the United States Military Academy. Included in the Corps are three companies, a band, and a staff. Every member of the companies has hopes of becoming captain of his respective company. Once his goal as captain is reached, the cadet looks forward to a promotion to the staff. The staff consists of one colonel, one lieutenant colonel, four majors, and one sergeant major. The staff is the administrative department of the corps. Although the boys at Thomas Jefferson may choose between military and physical education, those who participate in the military system feel that it is a most rewarding experience. Numerous activities help make military training more enjoyable. Thomas Jefferson, among the thirty-two public schools in the country that have a military system, trains its students for all phases of life, including military service.



COL. O. H. LINCK
Commandant

This past year the Cadet Corps at Thomas Jefferson celebrated its seventeenth year of existence. The Corps progressed a great deal. Not only was membership more than that of the past ten years, but new and varied activities became a part of the Corps. As a member of the "55-C" Military School Program of the United States Government, the Corps enables honorable graduates to be eligible for Junior R.O.T.C. in college. Therefore, the graduates are able to begin in the advanced R.O.T.C. program. Participation in various activities makes a well-rounded cadet. This year the Corps sponsored two Cadet Hops, one in the fall and the other in the spring. Also included in their activities were two Sponsors'

Thomas Jefferson

Days. At this time each sponsor was awarded with company ribbons from each cadet she represented. Hours of hard drilling went into the preparation for the Competitive Drills. Each company followed orders tensely, in hopes that they would win. Among other activities for this past year were sporting events. The Corps enthusiastically participated in football games. Numerous company parties were among the many social events. Both the Corps and the Band represented Thomas Jefferson in various parades. Hard work and social activities make the Cadet Corps a success at Thomas Jefferson.

Every organization needs leaders to keep it running smoothly. This also pertains to the Cadet Corps at Thomas Jefferson. The Staff, a group of officers, has the responsibility of keeping the three separate companies, each consisting of two platoons, in line. Each member of the staff is given specific duties which he must fulfill promptly and correctly in order that the entire Cadet Corps will function as it should. The Staff members serve for only one term, and then a new staff is appointed to guide the Corps for the next term. Appointments to the Staff are based upon both scholastic and military records. A cadet must be proficient in classes other than military, and he must have a clear conduct record. Every cadet officer must pass all his subjects every report period in order to retain his rank. Of course, the military record of each officer must prove satisfactory. With its motto, "Courage, Conviction, Consecration," the Corps strives for keen minds and healthy bodies. The Corps aims to produce men who will become leaders of our city, our state, and our nation.

Spring Term

The graduation ceremony of the cadets is a most effective one. The fall graduation takes place within the school, but the spring graduation takes place on the front field. At this time each cadet who is graduating from Thomas Jefferson receives a certificate of graduation from the Cadet Corps. New ranks are announced, and various awards and medals are given to those cadets who are worthy of them. Among the awards are the Efficiency Cup and the Basketball Cup, each given to the company deserving it. The Donahue Saber is awarded to one of the cadets who will be an officer for the following school year, while the Founders Medal is awarded to a graduating senior who has achieved a high scholastic and military standing. The freshman cadets are not forgotten, though, for a Rookie Medal is given to the best "rat" in the Corps. Each cadet strives to win the Best All Around Cadet, an award which is presented to the best cadet in each company. Each graduating cadet feels he has a knowledge of how to face the future with an intelligent mind.

Citizens living near Thomas Jefferson High School are accustomed to seeing the corps and the band drilling on the athletic field or marching along the streets. They hear the notes of the bugler as the flags are raised to begin the day and when the flags are lowered to end the day. The entire city sees the corps in dress uniform in the parades on Memorial Day, for the Tobacco Festival, and when the governor is inaugurated. The buglers are often asked to serve for some civic celebration. On a state and national level the corps also participates in parades.

. . . Through Teamwork

Athletics

Playing hard to win, but losing well if one must lose is a most essential quality which each human being should possess. Good sportsmanship is impressed upon a student's mind from the time he enters the first grade until he leaves high school. It is a hard task for many to accept the losers' shoes; therefore, Thomas Jefferson tempts numerous young boys and girls to participate in its athletic program. This well-developed program trains students for various sports, such as hockey, tennis, and basketball, but at the same time it indirectly instills in them a sense of fair play. Although the players themselves often find it difficult to accept the fact that they have lost, the spectators forget their courtesy and begin "booing" their opponents. This is a major discipline problem in many high schools, but through the long, hard efforts of our assistant principals this has become a minor problem at Thomas Jefferson. Through their efforts, better sportsmanship and school spirit are gradually becoming augmented in our school. Thomas Jefferson has always been aware of the fact that sports develop one's mind and body. New additions are continuously being added to the athletic program. Only this past spring was golf included. Certainly it may not be said that Thomas Jefferson does not instill in its students the fact that the importance of any sport is in playing the game, not winning the game.

Spirits High

Rain or shine, the cheerleaders with their enthusiasm and spirit cheered our teams to victory. The captains, Judy Duke and Joan Barnett, created new cheers and chants, which instilled in the students a new school spirit. Long hours of practice paid off when the girls placed second in the annual cheering rally. They introduced an award which was presented to the homeroom that showed the most school spirit during the football and basketball seasons. They may have lost their voices a few times, but no one can say that they did not keep their spunk and zest.

Shinbusters

Spirit and enthusiasm helped make a most successful year for the Varsity Field Hockey Team. The girls were determined to come out on top, and they succeeded with seven wins and one loss. Janice Wood and Barbara Gordon were placed on the first team of the Allied B Field Hockey Tournament at Westhampton College. Also receiving honors were Jebbie Beech, Pat Garcelon and Barbara Ruffin, who were placed on the second team. The Junior Varsity Team, under the direction of Miss Edith Todd, enjoyed a winning season. The managers of both hockey teams, Barbara Dunn and Kay Ware, kept the girls in line as to playing days and their scoring averages. Again this year each team added to the impressive record which is compiled by the Jeffs' girls' teams. Our school can be proud of the way these teams represent us in competitive sports.

Lady Presidents

"Get that ball" are well-known words to the Lady Presidents. With two hard-working co-captains, Pat Garcelon and Sally Sheppard, the girls could not help but win ten out of eleven games. Strenuous effort was exerted at the practices by the Girls' Varsity Basbetball Team, but the results proved that it was quite worthwhile. The girls were pleased to have Dale Ellis, Pat Garcelon, and Karen Megne placed on the All-Prep Basketball Team in the tournament at R.P.I. Another recognized was Sally Sheppard with honorable mention. The Junior Varsity Team also had a successful year. They completed this season with twelve wins and no losses. June Johnston and Kay Hardy served as managers of both the Varsity and Junior Varsity Teams. Under the guidance of their coach, Miss Mildred Brame, the girls learned many new techniques not only by playing the game but by watching more experienced players. Without their determination, the girls would never have made this the most successful year in basketball at Thomas Jefferson.

Presidents

Although this past season was not outstanding for the Varsity Team, the boys put forth great effort. The juniors who were called upon to be a part of the team lacked both height and experience. Despite this fact, the boys used great speed to secure their ten victories. Although there were eight losses, we won two regular season games over J.M., our rival. Buddy Enck, Cecil Long, and Tommy Walsh were among the high scorers of the season. The Junior Varsity Team, under the guidance of Mr. Carmack, had a most prosperous year. They set an outstanding record of fourteen wins and only two losses.

Strong batting was the emphasis at the numerous practices of this year's baseball team. The Jeffs were disappointed, as the season opened with three losses and one win. Two of the three losses were due to the lack of hitting experience. However, the loss to Hermitage was the result of a great many errors. In this game Thomas Jefferson made eight errors and received only three hits. Stuart was the losing pitcher of this game. When the Jeffs beat Highland Springs 2-0, they gained a new confidence which brought them other victories. Although they still lacked good, strong batting, the boys were quite successful in using the techniques gained from the long, tedious hours of practice. Stuart, one of the eight lettermen, led the team as pitcher. Tucker and Turner also excelled as pitchers. An up and coming junior, Schneider, showed great promise, as his batting average increased throughout the season. Under the direction of Coach Bloxsom, the team strived hard for each of their victories. The boys more than likely would have been overwhelmingly victorious this year if they had been more experienced with their batting. It may truly be said, though, that each victory was well deserved.

Cindermen

Although the Thinclads opened the season with a loss to Hermitage, they attained overwhelming victories over Manchester and Highland Springs. We were fortunate in having sparkplugs from last year's squad who had the experience. Bogan, the top sprint man, proved quite successful in the 100 and the 220, while Koch showed great skill in the shot, high hurdles, discus, 440, and mile relay. Cook was also an asset to the squad for his skill in the mile relay. Placing in both the high jump and the broad jump was Jerry Bitts. These boys, together with others on the squad, established a commendable seasonal record.

The Girls' Softball Team, known as the "lady sluggers," opened the season on the right foot by winning the first game, which was against Petersburg. Under the guidance of Miss Mildred Brame, the girls began their practices early this past spring in order to perfect their skills. The long, hard hours of practice certainly paid off, though. The determination of the captains, Judy Butler, Pat Garcelon, and Jo Humeas, inspired the girls to never give up. The interest and skill of the "sluggers" were paid off by the presentation of awards at the end of the season. These awards were given to the outstanding femmies of the season.

Jo and Judy make a good combination.

TENNIS TEAM—First Row: Hatcher, Slavin, Frankel, Viener, Parrish, Schutt, Gunter. Second Row: Waters, Blackwell, Mosley, Batt, Chiles, Schreck, Starr, Carlton.

Netters

Having obtained the state championship for the past eleven years, the tennis team began the season with victories over five tough teams, such as the Union Theological Seminary, the University of Virginia freshmen, and the University of Richmond. With the experience of such netters as Frankel, Parrish, Slavin, and Viener, the team could not help but go far. The tennis team, the strongest of all groups at Thomas Jefferson, has always done well, and this past year's players did not let their school down. The Girls' Tennis Team also possesses this same reputation. They worked hard this spring not only to attain a better form, but to achieve success.

BLOXSOM

Enthusaistic and hard-working coaches are the backbone of strong teams. Although the boys and girls possess the determination to play well, they tend to depend upon an experienced coach to teach them new techniques. This is only natural, though, for one cannot play without a thorough knowledge of the game. Thomas Jefferson is fortunate in that its coaches are skilled in their respective fields. Skillful coaching results in winning teams.

School Life

Life is composed of numerous experiences which blend to make a well-rounded personality. Thomas Jefferson has provided many opportunities to enable the students to take an active part in school life. From 8:40 in the morning until 3:10 in the afternoon, the school day is filled with many experiences for everyone. By participating in the activities a student is able to receive helpful advice from those who are in no way connected with the school. Members of the advanced chemistry class had the experience of attending a speech given by the chemistry professors at Princeton University. In this way they were able to learn of the multifarious positions offered in this field. Forum students broadened their knowledge of world affairs through the talks of various speakers. The Leadership Training Center, sponsored by the homeroom presidents, prepared many students to hold offices of the school as well as those of smaller organizations. By observing the techniques of experienced leaders, the students were able to obtain some pointers. Thomas Jefferson is represented at many conventions during the school year. The literary and business staffs of the school publications send delegates to the Columbia Scholastic Press Association in New York and the Southern Interscholastic Press Association in Lexington, Virginia. It is a wonderful experience to attend one of these conventions, for one meets students from all sections of the United States. By taking advantage of these experiences one learns, for "experience is the best teacher."

TOURNAMENT

Throngs of students gather in the front hall before school. Some discuss the latest news; others ponder over last night's homework.

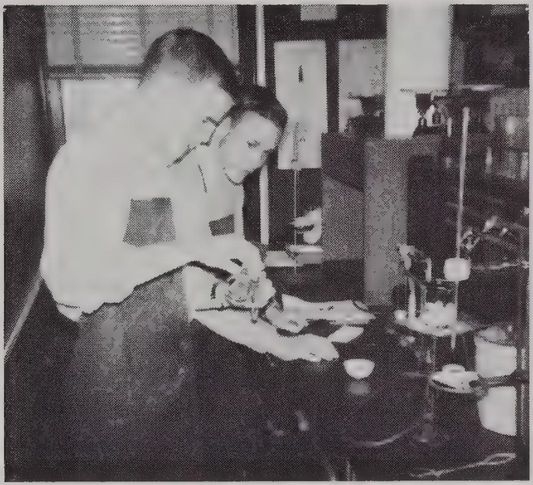
Sue Perel and Barbara Vitsky trudge through the snow after two days out of school.

Cadets raise the flag, even in the snow!

In spring and fall students find outdoor-studying fun.

Students arrive at Thomas Jefferson from many sections of Richmond. As one enters the school, he finds crowds of chattering students standing in the front hall, while others are busily doing their work. There are a selected few who arrive at school at 8 o'clock to take the advanced chemistry course. Of course, the cadets are always up bright and early to practice drilling before classes begin. They are responsible for raising the flag each morning in the autumn, winter, and spring. The library is opened at 8:30 for the students' convenience. Many find that this time is quite valuable in doing last-minute work. Everyone feels that the few leisure minutes each morning pass much too quickly, for before we realize the time, it is almost 8:40. We rush to our homerooms, and get ready for another day of school. At 8:40 announcements are made over the public address system. The first period bell rings, and the school day begins!

Patsy Ryan looks on while Mr. Smith gives a friendly reminder to the faculty over the P.A. system.



For Ralston Lecky and Jimmie Fortune, school begins at 8:00 with advanced chemistry.

"C" Company's first platoon practices the old "one-two" before their big win at the fall semester Competitive Drill.

Child care student, Pat Snead, encourages Freddy Walker and Howard Appler to paint.

John Davis and Morris Serewitz compare their biology projects.

Jane Price, typing student, prepares announcements for the guidance department.

When the first period bell rings, students rush to classes all over the school. Some senior girls are off to take child care. The nursery school children keep their hands full. Biology students are fascinated at the many plants and animals which exist. The students who take Distributive Education sometimes find that they may have a job and attend school at the same time. Some find that art is interesting; others prefer to prepare themselves for the business world. Whatever we take, we gain knowledge only through hard work.

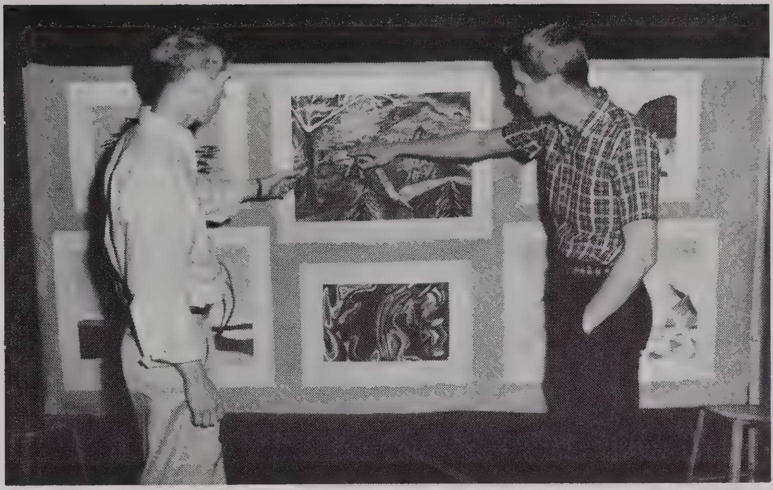
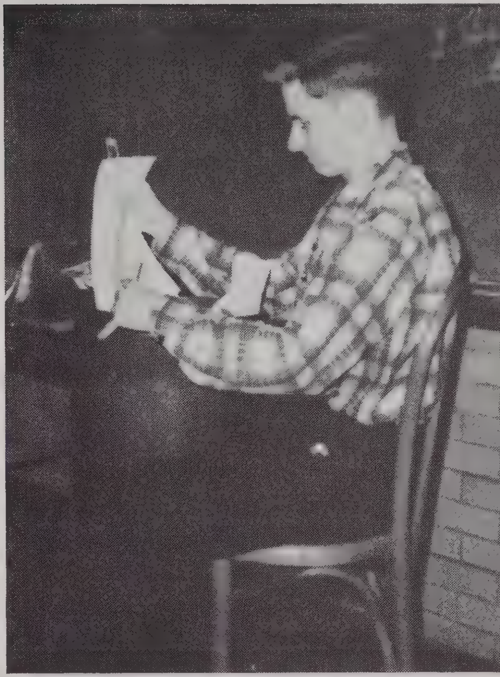
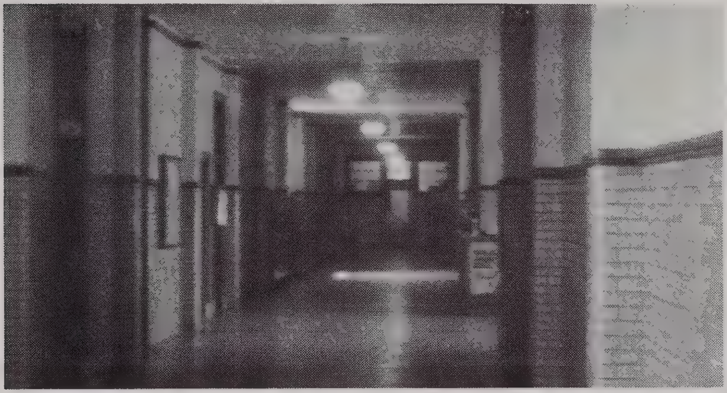
Grayson Foy, slide rule student, gathers some pointers from Miss Henna.



At the art exhibit in May, Russell Jordan and Jimmy Stott discuss "Winter Landscape."



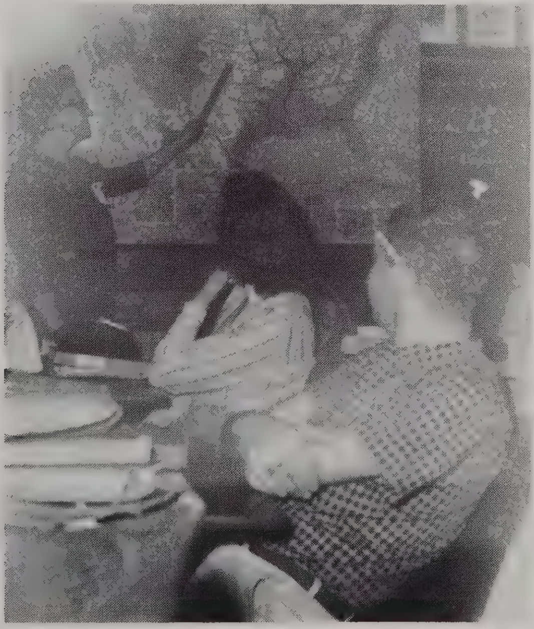
"Now where is my book summary," exclaims Buddy Mayo. "There goes my 'B' in English!"



First period has begun. Halls, which were filled with students a minute before, are now empty for fifty-five minutes.

A part of Mr. Padgett's work with the Distributive Education students is explaining the use of application forms.

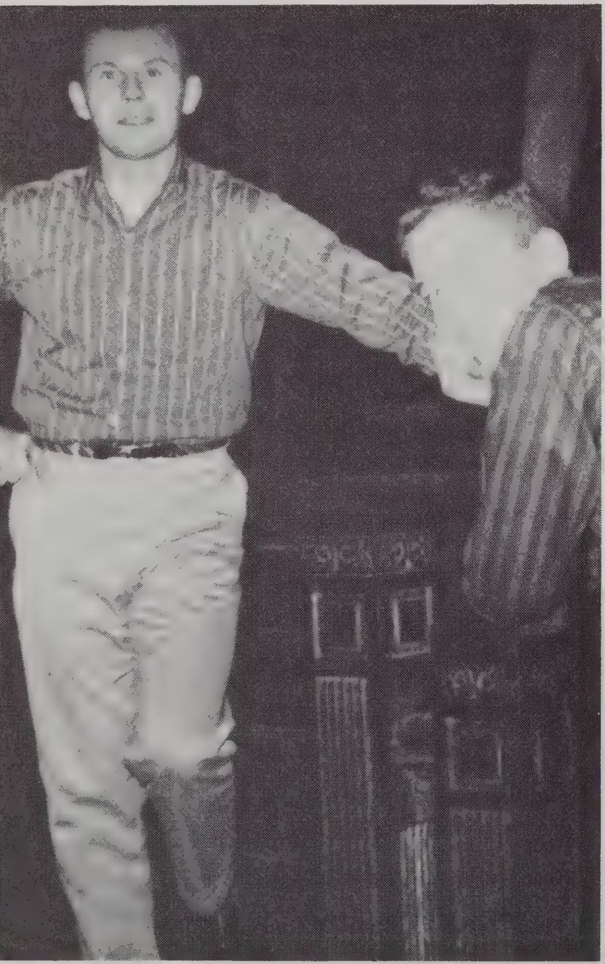
"These are the Great Plains," says Miss Brandenburg to her history class.

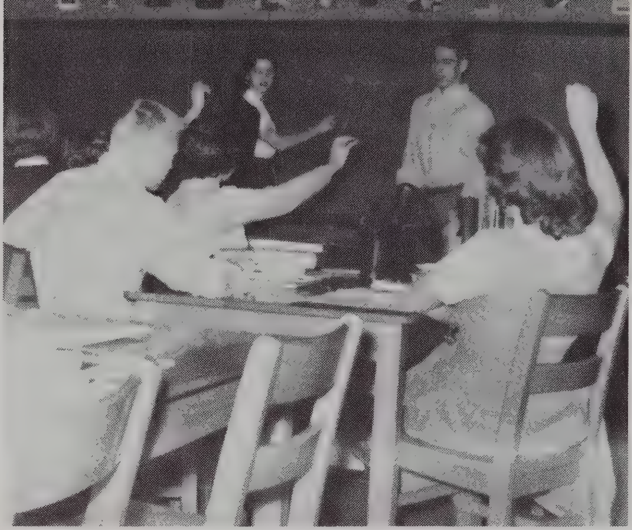


Energetic boys get a work-out during gym class.

Louise Myer and Virginia Rawlings pause to see which "old favorites" are "still popular."

Alain Werbrouck, foreign exchange student, pauses while coming down the stairs from 408.





John Turner and Nancy Blake conduct mid-term election of officers in a weekly homeroom meeting.

We hurriedly rush from our second period class to our homerooms where twenty-five minutes of confusion begin. Some bother the teachers for library slips; others go to committee meetings. Those who stay in the homerooms study for tests or do homework. They are not excluded from the school activities, though. Usually they are asked to buy the annual, the newspaper, or pay class dues. The library becomes slightly noisy as so many students attempt to do research work or look for books for that next report. As one loiters down the halls, he can hear the voices of students. On Wednesday and Thursday of each week everyone attends assembly programs. These programs are well-planned so that they will be of interest to the students. Lunch period, which is divided into three recesses, is booming with activity. Each one uses his twenty-five minutes in a different way. A quiet moment of prayer is spent at the beginning of each recess. After lunch many students find bridge entertaining until our next class begins.

Mr. Smith receives a carnation from Barbara Bridges during Teacher Appreciation Week.

"Harem" Howell, also known as "Huckleberry" Howell, the "star" of the faculty team, poses victoriously after the Teacher-Tebahoe game.

There is mad confusion at lunch, but oh, what fun catching up on the latest gossip!

Playing bridge, Jenny Stott, Tina Grosser, and Laurie Vail relax at lunch with a game of cards.

"What! Me study?" says Martin Yecies. Auditorium study is a familiar scene to many. While some are studying, others sleep.

Susan Leake, delegate to the Columbia Press Association Convention in New York, pauses on the Bowery at the Chinese Mission to look for a friend.

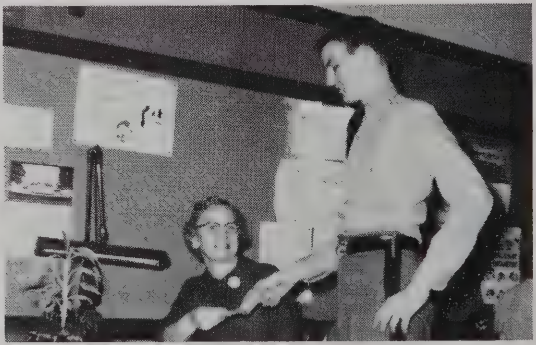
The many events which take place during the school year are not confined to the hours we spend in school. The exhausted energy comes to life as cadets and their dates practice for the figures, which are very beautiful. Sponsor's Day, with the girls in white and the cadets in formal uniform, is most attractive. The T.J.-J.M. football game is highlighted with the crowning of Miss Jeff. This has been a tradition for many years. The annual Monticello banquet is awaited by all. The staff positions for the succeeding year are announced at this time. Teachers are greatly appreciated at Thomas Jefferson. We set aside a whole week just for them. Rehearsals for the Senior Play, Junior Stunt Night, and Operetta are tiring, but they are worthwhile when opening night brings throngs of happy people. These are merely a few of the numerous events. They come and go so quickly that we have only pleasant memories with which to remember them.

Colonel Linck, Commandant of the Cadet Corps, smiles approvingly as the corps passes in review.

Mrs. Broaddus eagerly awaits her new annual as Mr. King, publisher of the Monticello, chats with our retired principal, Mr. C. C. Hancock, at the Monticello banquet.

Everyone seems to be enjoying himself at the annual Monticello banquet. Excitement fills the air, as new positions will soon be announced.

"Good luck on the National Merit Scholarship, Juniors," says Mrs. Garthright, as she accepts Frank Rayson's money for the quiz.



Joe Schwartz is prompted by Ann Osterman for the Senior Play, "Charm School," starring Stuart Sanders and Carole Milstein.

Tim Hill and Bunni Dodge dance at one of the Soc Hops sponsored by the P.T.A.

Betsy Loving and Betty Maxey cheer the student body on to victory in the rec hall on the morning of the big T.J.-J.M. football game.

Nick Orsi runs for 29 yards before Lane's Dave Fuller forces him out of bounds.

. . . Through Participation

Ads

The advertisers are a most important part of our annual, for without them we could not possibly put out this Monticello. Their support is a financial security which is necessary for the production of an outstanding yearbook. There is a link which ties our advertisers to the students; for by their support the students have the opportunity to become better acquainted with the business firms of Richmond, and, at the same time, our faithful advertisers become acquainted with the young citizens of our community. The advertising in a yearbook is definitely an indication of good school-community relationships. We are proud of this relationship, and we hope to maintain it. Thomas Jefferson feels fortunate in having the support of the businessmen of Richmond. As each student takes his place in community living in Richmond, the teachings of Thomas Jefferson through the four high school years should enable him to be an active participant not only in business affairs, but also in civic affairs. Our greatest appreciation of both the school and the community will come as we practice the ideals of our high school as citizens of Richmond. Thus we are able to say not only to our school but also to the taxpayers of our community, sincerely, "Thou hast taught us how to live."

The Mark of a Champion!

When a young man can face the business world with the same undaunted courage that he bucks the line in football, and can take the bumps that inevitably will come to him in business, and can keep his fighting spirit and keep smiling . . . then he has the mark of a champion. The world needs young men like this and the world will make way for them. The life insurance business needs such men, so why not prepare yourself for a career in the life insurance business. It's a business of opportunity for young men of ambition and vision.

It's a good life
at The Life of Virginia

Your high school diploma is your passport to a good job with a real future, at the Home Office of The Life of Virginia. And it's a secure future with this outstanding insurance company . . . the kind of company you'll choose when you take out your own life insurance.

Come by or write for booklet that gives you the facts about your opportunities . . . how other young people have succeeded . . . and working conditions. Good pay, of course; five-day week; free advancement training courses; liberal vacations; air conditioned offices; employee cafeteria; insurance and retirement plans. It's all in the free folder, "Now, Really . . .". Be sure to get your copy.

Write or contact Personnel Division.

THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF VIRGINIA

SINCE 1871 • RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

Special Report to Young Men of Tomorrow . . .

OPPORTUNITY

awaits you in the pulp and paper industry

WHERE WILL you go after high school? To work? To trade school? To College? For the young man interested in college training, the pulp and paper industry has a continuing need for new technical personnel and offers unlimited opportunities for advancement in this exciting field.

THE SPECTACULAR growth of this industry makes possible top wages and security in a host of highly skilled technical positions. A four-year college education is preferred for such positions as pulp technologists, plant chemists, quality control specialists and production trainees.

SCHOLARSHIP help at North Carolina State College in Raleigh is available for college majors in pulp and paper technology, and highly remunerative employment within the industry is usually available during the summer vacation periods. Graduates of this program are qualified for quick advancement in production, technical and top management positions within the industry. Applications for pulp and paper scholarships for the academic year beginning next fall must be made by May 15.

IF YOU are a young man in high school who has above average grades in math, physics, chemistry and related subjects, we urge you to contact us or your Guidance Coordinator. We will gladly explain to you in detail about the opportunities awaiting you in this fascinating industry.

The occupation with a future..today

Do you demand the best of yourself in all you do? Are you the kind of person who wants to be your own business manager . . . while, at the same time, you perform a valuable service to your community and clients? If so, then with the proper schooling plus specialized company training you could become a Connecticut General Representative.

Consider these unique qualities found in the CG man's career.

INDEPENDENCE . . . you're the boss of your own time.

UNLIMITED GROWTH . . . if your capacity is great enough, there are no bounds to your financial achievements.

PERSONAL SATISFACTION . . . your service is carefully prepared to help your clients reach their goals in life.

PRESTIGE . . . you're at the top rung of the ladder. People look to you for expert assistance.

Our Appreciation

TO THE ADVISERS, FACULTY, AND STUDENTS

... Miss Lowance, you have devoted endless hours in helping us make our annual a success. You were always right there working on the annual the night before each section went in. You put up with the many problems which arose, but, as always, you had them settled. For everything you have done for us, we say "thank you" from our hearts.

... Miss Gray, you have kept a close watch on our money, and made sure we raised enough to put out this, our most treasured, annual. Thank you for helping us reach our goal.

... Teachers, you have been most understanding. You excused our many tardies when picture-taking did not go too smoothly. Thank you for your patience and tolerance.

... Members of the student body, you have been most cooperative. We thank you for posing for pictures and for being patient while re-taking pictures. This annual was made for you. We hope it will hold many memories in years to come.

... Virginia Walker and Sharon Horne, you have typed every word in this book. That was some job! Thanks for your cooperation in typing last-minute copy besides the other material. You were wonderful.

TO THE PUBLISHERS

... Mr. Stirling King, your professional guidance has been invaluable. We thank you and Whittet and Shepperson for your assistance in the production of the 1959 Monticello.

TO THE PHOTOGRAPHERS

... To Dementi Studio, Lisman Studio, Whittaker Studio, Richmond Times-Dispatch, Richmond News Leader, and our school photographers we say "thanks" for a job well done. Without you our picture story would not exist.

TO THE ADVERTISERS

... Advertisers, you have made our book financially possible. We sincerely thank you for helping us say to our school, "Thou hast taught us how to live."
